India Claims Progress In East

. . . West Pakistanis Try Hard To Advance In Kashmir

By The Associated Press

India claimed Wednesday its forces had crumbled enemy lines in East Pakistan and were within 28 miles of the provincial capital of Dacca, with the Pakistan army in confused retreat.

But the Indians admitted peril to their units on the western front in Kashmir.

An Indian spokesman in New Delhi said: "The Pakistani soldiers are withdrawing from all the border areas in Bangla Desh into the heart of the country." Bangla Desh is the rebel name for East Pakistan.

A West Pakistani army spokesman in Rawalpindi, the capital, insisted Pakistan was in control of the situation in the east, but conceded that damage to the Dacca airport and the airstrip at the nearby Kumotola military encampment had made it impossible for Pakistani aircraft to take off in support of ground forces.

He said the Indians were landing troops by helicopter and the Pakistanis wiped out two companies near Hilli in the northwest. Another Rawalpindi report said Indian forces had been driven back in the Hilli region.

The Pakistan air force claimed it was in full operation on the western front and its planes had knocked out 40 Indian tanks along the West Pakistan border.

An air force spokesman said 102 Indian planes had been downed since last Friday. India claims to have shot down 72 Pakistani planes. India had 625 warplanes at the beginning of the war and Pakistan about 250.

In East Pakistan, the Indians claimed to be within 28 miles southeast of Dacca, the provincial capital, after capturing Jessore in the southwest, Comilla in the east, and Sylhet in the northeast.

Radio Pakistan asserted that those towns 'are firmly in our control and Indian radio broadcasts of their capture are fantastic, ridiculous and baseless. We are defending every inch of our sacred soil."

But a group of Western correspondents belied the Pakistani claim of holding Jessore. The correspondents were allowed to visit the town and watched as jubilant crowds cheered the conquering Indian troops. (More on Page 3.)

The chief of staff of the Indian army, Gen. Sam Manekshaw, made his second broadcast appeal in two days to Pakistani soldiers in the east to give up. "Should you not heed my advice and surrender to my army and endeavor to escape, I assure you certain fate awaits you."

In other developments:

—A Pakistani spokesman in Rawalpindi called the U.N. General Assembly's appeal for a cease-fire a "big moral and political victory." He accused the Soviet Union of "aiding and abetting" what he termed India's aim to "gobble up part of Pakistan . . . and set up a puppet government."

—Communist China accused the Soviet Union in an official broadcast Thursday of "standing completely on the side of the Indian government, abetting and supporting it in its scheme to create Bangla Desh."

—In Washington, the Nixon administration — clearly worried about deteriorating U.S. — Indian relations — was edging away from previous allegations that India was the aggressor. But White House and State Department officials indicated there was no intention to disavow their judgment that India's attack into East Pakistan was not justified.

—The Pakistan navy claimed that Indian aircraft attacked two American merchant ships in the East Pakistan port of Chittagong.

The news for the Indians was grim from Kashmir. The Indian spokesman said the Pakistanis launched a fierce new attack with troops and tanks on the east bank of the Tawi River Wednesday afternoon "and our troops are very hard pressed."

The Indians had fallen back from Chhamb, near the border, Tuesday and tried to dig into the east bank of the Tawi to check the Pakistan drive threatening to cut off the main road from Kashmir to the rest of India.

"This is almost an indefensible area," the spokesman said. "The attacking troops have the advantage, because of the terrain."

The Pakistanis have committed more than a division of infantry and three armored brigades to the battle, he added, and strategic positions in the area have changed hands several times.

Claiming Pakistani losses were massive, the Indian spokesman said only that Indian casualties in the fighting were moderate.

The only highway link between New Delhi and Srinagar, the capital of Indian Kashmir, runs near the battle area, which also was the scene of bloody fighting in the 1965 war between India and Pakistan over Kashmir.

In the Punch area 70 miles north of Chhamb, the spokesman reported the Pakistanis were engaging Indian forces at several points but said there was no heavy fighting.

"It's cold up there now," he said, "and there have been few troop movements on either side I think both sides are praying for snow." snow."

$300 Average Pay Hike Again Urged For State

. . . BY APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

For the second year in a row, the Legislature's Appropriations Committee Wednesday night recommended that the average annual salary hike for all state employes be held to $300.

But this time, the committee tacked onto the salary increase a fringe benefit provision under which the state would purchase a $5,000 life insurance policy for employes not presently insured by their state agency employer.

This salary package, which favors lower paid state employes more than an average percentage increase would, was endorsed on a 6-2 vote.

Cost of the proposal in state tax-supported general fund dollars was estimated by Sen Richard Marvel of Hastings at approximately $5 million.

The salary recommendation will be submitted to the 1972 Legislature within the committee's fiscal 1972-73 operational budget bill.

Rejected by the committee was Gov. J. James Exon's proposed salary package which called for a 4% increase in wages and an additional 2½% increase in the form of fringe benefits, including both life and health insurance.

Cost of the Exon plan had been estimated at $6.1 million.

Assuming an average state employe salary of $6,400 a year, the committee's $300 boost represents an average pay raise of 4.7%. General fund cost of the salary hike alone is about $4.6 million.

The 4.7% average declines sharply for higher paid state employes, including senior faculty members at the University of Nebraska. The wage hike would be 3% for an employe salaried at $1,000 a year, and 2% for one whose salary is $15,000.

Before the committee accepted the $300-plus-life-insurance proposal, it turned down four alternative plans.

Rejected on a 4-3 vote (five votes are required in the nine-member committee) was a proposal to grant only the $300 increase.

A proposal to allow a 5% increase, with a minimum of $300 and a maximum of $600, was turned aside on a 2-5 score.

A plan which would grant a 2½% boost plus a flat $180 allowance to each employe, with a maximum of $600 in total benefits, was buried on a 3-3 count.

A motion to grant 5% increases only for state employes salaried at $12,000 or less failed to attract a second.

In a two-hour evening executive session meeting at the Statehouse, the committee also approved staff recommendations for appropriations for 18 relatively small state agencies.

The only agency whose budget request was sharply trimmed was the State Railway Commission. It asked $908,571; the committee recommended $743,607, somewhat larger than its current $714,000 appropriation.

The committee had advance access to the governor's budget recommendations for the agencies. Exon's budget proposals are not scheduled for public review until they are formally presented to the Legislature next month.

In other action, the committee decided to adopt a general policy of appropriating funds by program, with ceilings attached to appropriations for personal services (salaries). There will, however, be exceptions, senators agreed.

LOMR Seeks To Settle Differences With County

By CHARLIE HARPSTER
Star Staff Writer

The board of directors of the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR) voted unanimously Wednesday night to meet with the Lancaster County Board of Commissioners in an attempt to settle their differences.

Commissioner William Grossman, who was instrumental in bringing about an investigation of LOMR, arrived near the end of the special meeting and said he is willing to meet with the board "any time," probably Tuesday.

Commissioner Robert Colin is expected to return from Hawaii Thursday but Commissioner Kenneth Bourne will be out of town the rest of the week, Grossman said.

Grossman said he called for the investigation because, "we were getting a lot of heat — a lot of people were on our necks with complaints" about the administration of LOMR.

Grossman added, "This is not to say there is anything wrong with what (LOMR) is doing at all." But because of the complaints," he said, we want to take a look."

"I can't say you people are right, and the people who complained are wrong. We need someone who is disinterested to tell us what is going on."

Last week the commissioners agreed to name a committee to study LOMR and sought a list of names from the Lincoln Hospital and Health Council, which submitted six nominees.

Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas ruled earlier this week that the commissioners have control over the operations of LOMR.

LOMR board president Richard Meile said the ruling created problems because the agencies holding contracts signed by LOMR are no longer certain who is accountable for them.

"We need clarification on what our contracts mean," Meile said. "I think people holding the other side of the contracts will be wondering."

Meile said he was concerned about an order forbidding Luebs to run the day-to-day activities of LOMR programs, which were to be supervised by Grossman.

"Some programs are seven days a week, 24 hours a day," Meile said. "I don't know what we are to do if we can't come into contact with Mr. Grossman."

Meile added that staff morale was at a low point because of the removal of the board's authority.

IT'S RARE, BUT IT'S A RECORD

Snow in Tucson, Ariz., is nearly as rare as a penguin in Florida, but it came down in a record amount Wednesday. The previous record snowfall in Tucson was 6.4 inches, which fell Nov. 16, 1958. Wednesday's snow amounted to 6.5 inches, and the small foreign car was just one of the victims. The last measurable snow fell in Tucson in 1968—that was 0.4 inches Dec. 20.

Budget Unit Told Pay Hikes For NU Faculty First Priority

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Appropriation Committee was told Wednesday that faculty morale at the University of Nebraska's Lincoln campuses will plummet unless professors are provided with substantial pay increases by the 1972 Unicameral.

The "first priority," Prof. Norman Rosenberg told the committee, is "to maintain competitive faculty salaries."

"If a formula like $300 a year is proposed again, it would be a very severe blow to morale," he said.

Rosenberg, professor of horticulture and forestry and chairman of the faculty liaison committee in Lincoln, was among six faculty members and students who appeared Wednesday for Budget Committee hearing on the NU request for 1972-73.

The request seeks a 15.5% increase in general fund support for NU, from $43 million this year to $50 million during the fiscal year which begins next July.

Nearly half of the increase would go for improved salaries and fringe benefits for faculty and professional staff members and for employes classified as non-professionals.

NU has recommended a 5% increase in salary and fringe benefits for faculty members, compared with the 2.4% realized last year on the basis of the $300 per position budgeted by the Legislature at the governor's recommendation

Rosenberg told the committee that "last year's formula for salaries was a major determination for a number of senior key members" of the faculty who resigned.

And he predicted a similar raise during the coming year would cut heavily into the ranks of junior faculty members.

Earlier, NU President D B. Varner had told the lawmakers that the raises provided during the current fiscal year were the "strongest consideration in encouraging the faculty to move to collective bargaining."

History Prof A. Stanley Trickett of NU at Omaha, where the union movement has gathered the most strength, said the university "must keep abreast of the items" in salary levels.

Students from UNL and UNO also told the committee that library facilities and operations and smaller classes are among the top priorities at both campuses.

Jim Zadina, president of the UNO student body, said the UNO library is "understaffed, overcrowded and ill-equipped."

And Dennis Confer of McCook, representing UNL students, said the library is the top student priority at Lincoln

Zadina also identified parking as a chief concern of UNO students

Neither Confer nor Zadina showed much enthusiasm when committee members asked how students would react to a tuition increase next year.

The university has not recommended a tuition boost, noting that the hike for the current year was one of the major factors in a drop in enrollment at UNO

Noting that UNO students now pay what he termed a "disproportionate" share of their costs, Zadina said he believes they "would be very unhappy" with another increase next year.

During a discussion of the UNO request with Interim Chancellor John V. Blackwell, the committee was told that next year, for the first time, prospective students will be charged a fee for applying to the university.

The fee will be $10 for resident students and $25 for nonresidents.

Students also spoke up for smaller classes, while Rosenberg said he believed faculty members would prefer higher salaries to reduced workloads.

He said increases should at least equal cost-of-living hikes.

House Okays Farm-Aid Bill

Washington (AP) — The House overpowered President Nixon's farm-policy backers Wednesday night and voted to set up a national food bank while raising wheat and feed-grain price supports by 25%.

After rejecting efforts to gain consideration of a $20,000-per-farmer annual limit on federal subsidies, the House linked two highly controversial measures — both opposed by the administration — into a massive farm-aid bill.

Democrats said it is aimed at helping stave off a depression in the Farm Belt. But Republicans attacked the bill as a highly costly federal project that could yield more mischief than relief.

The Democrats crushed Republican attempts to revise the bill. The legislation would:

—Establish a $1.5-billion national food bank of wheat and feed grains, with an annual average storage cost of $215 million.

—Raise the total grain-crop value by more than $2 billion through a 25% mandatory two-year boost in minimum loan rates to protect producer income, at an estimated cost to the government of $281 million in the year ending next June 30.

The bill was sent to the Senate, where it is expected to receive an enthusiastic welcome from Democrats and intense opposition from Republicans.

Two California Democrats Endorse Muskie

Washington (AP) — Four weeks before his formal announcement for the presidency, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie said Wednesday his efforts to build a solid pre-1972 base of support are "moving with increasing effectiveness."

The Maine senator made the assessment at a Washington news conference at which he received the formal endorsements of two top California Democrats, Sen. John V. Tunney and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti.

He confirmed also he will announce on Jan. 4 "my intentions for the coming year." Aides said national television time has been reserved for that night.

After the news conference in Washington, Muskie and Tunney flew to Los Angeles for a West Coast rerun.

Tunney, a close friend, onetime roommate and political ally of Sen. Edward M Kennedy, said in response to a question that his support of Muskie means "I take Sen. Kennedy at his word that he is not a candidate."

He said he conferred with the Massachuetts senator about his plan to endorse Muskie "and he in no way tried to dissuade me."

Major Boosts

The endorsements of Tunney and Moretti were seen as major boosts for Muskie in California's June 6, winner-take-all primary that will net the winner 271 delegates, 9 per cent of the total at the Democratic National Convention next July.

Muskie said in disclosing the Jan. 4 announcement date "we intend to achieve results. I think we're moving with increasing effectiveness."

Moretti, one of the rising young stars of the California Democratic Party, became the sixth of seven men interested in seeking the governorship in 1974 to back Muskie.

Missing from the announcements was California's senior Democratic senator, Alan Cranston, who is considering backing Muskie after earlier indicating he would stay neutral in the June 6 primary.

Muskie aides said they expect Cranston to enlist after the first of the year.

Campaign Chest Helped

The Tunney-Moretti announcements, Muskie aides said, are helpful in supplying the Maine senator with experienced campaign personnel and access to the funds to finance the campaign.

Money had been a big Muskie worry in California since Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota already has tied down some of the major Democratic contributors.

Moretti said that Humphrey and Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., are likely primary entrants and that other candidates who might run include New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, Los Angeles Mayor Samuel F. Yorty and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

Bengalis Cheer In Celebration

The New York Times

By SYDNEY H. SCHANBERG

Jessore, Pakistan — The Bengalis danced on the roofs of buses. They shouted independence slogans in the streets. They embraced, they cheered, they reached out spontaneously to claps the hands of visitors from other lands.

For them Wednesday was liberation day in Jessore, the strategic city in East Pakistan that for eight months — until Tuesday — had been under the occupation of West Pakistani troops.

The victorious Indian troops were almost as happy as the Bengals, but they didn't have much time to stop and celebrate as they continued to chase the retreating Pakistani forces southeast toward Khulna.

The Indians, too, waved and smiled and posed for pictures from the tops of their armored personnel carriers and tanks while they waited, four miles from Jessore, for the orders to move farther.

'Fleeing In Panic'

"They are fleeing in panic," an infantry captain of the 7th Punjab Regiment said of the Pakistani troops. "They've got good equipment and defenses, but their morale is in their boots."

Most of the Indian troops are as different from the Bengals as were the predominantly West Pakistani Punjabi troops — because the Indian soldiers are also heavily Punjabi. But cultural gaps have been temporarily erased.

The jubilant Bengals have pitched in en masse to help sustain the Indian drive by working with Indian troops to throw pontoon bridges across rivers whose permanent bridges are being blown up by the Pakistanis.

Expertly Demolished

A major bridge has been expertly demolished on the main road from the Indian border to Jessore, which is 23 miles inside East Pakistan. Five of the six spans of the steel and concrete bridge lie in the Kabathani River, as does the railway bridge about 200 yards downstream.

The scene at the site, which is the town of Jhikargacha, nine miles from Jessore, was a hectic one.

On the muddy bank below the blown road bridge, hundreds of Bengalis in long rows passed logs down the line to be laid as planking for the approaches to a new pontoon bridge. As they worked in machine-like precision, brawny troops from the army engineers inflated the huge rubber pontoons with a compressor, carried them through knee deep muck to the water and then began placing the aluminum spans across them. In four hours, the bridge was finished.

Federal Executives Feast On Cut-Rate Lunches—Report

Washington (UPI) — Federal government executives are feasting on cut-rate lunches, sometimes paying less than one-tenth the cost of the meal, the General Accounting Office (GAO) reported Wednesday. At one place, free booze is sometimes featured.

The report, prepared by the congressional watchdog agency at the request of Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, showed that a number of the executive lunchrooms in government buildings cater the best food bargains in the capital.

At the Transportation Dept., for example, high-echelon employes pay an average of $1.51 for a meal that costs an average $16.05 to prepare and serve. "And that does not include the cost of space and utilities," Mrs. Smith said.

Although the House and Senate Dining Rooms were not included in the GAO survey, Mrs. Smith said she would introduce a bill that would require all government agencies to submit a full, annual accounting for their executive lunch rooms, including all those on Capitol Hill.

As ranking Republican on the Senate Space Committee, Mrs. Smith first ordered an investigation of the executive lunchroom of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) which disclosed that $4.03 lunches were being served for 45 cents, partly through illegal purchase of food from military commissaries.

With that situation halted, she asked the GAO to conduct similiar surveys at several other government agencies. The findings:

At the Treasury Dept., executives pay $2.45 for a $14.31 meal; at the Justice Dept., $1.66 buys a $7.10 repast; at the National Science Foundation, $1.26 buys $3.55 worth of food and at the Interstate Commerce Commission, a $3.53 meal can be had for $1.94.

Mrs. Smith said executive diners at the National Science Foundation on special occasions are served confiscated liquor obtained from the Customs Bureau.

"In contrast," she said, "the Department of Agriculture is a paragon of virtue.

"Its executive lunchroom gets its food from the same cafeteria other employes do," she reported. "The only subsidy other than space and utilities for the agriculture executives is that they pay a service charge of 25 cents a meal for waitress service that actually costs 50 cents a meal."

Representatives Vote In Minority

Washington (AP) — Nebraska's Republican congressmen, Reps. John McCollister, Dave Martin and Charles Thone, voted in the minority Tuesday as the House sent to President Nixon a bill continuing the anti-poverty program and authorizing a major new child development program.

Ban On Germ War Endorsed

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations endorsed an international treaty Wednesday that would ban biological weapons.

The General Assembly's main political committee voted by acclamation to command the treaty and urge that member nations sign and ratify it as soon as possible.

France announced after the committee action that had a vote been taken, it would have abstained.

The treaty, prepared at the Geneva disarmament conference, represents a compromise between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The resolution endorsing now goes to the General Assembly for a vote. Approval is guaranteed because all U.N. members participate in the political committee.

The committee also approved a separate proposal recommending that all countries observe a voluntary moratorium on the development, production or storage of the most dangerous chemical weapons.

The vote was 96 to 0 in favor of the moratorium, with 11 countries abstaining, including all nuclear powers except the Soviet Union and China.

West Berlin OKs Terms But East Germany Balks

Berlin (AP) — West Berlin accepted terms for travel between the divided halves of Berlin Wednesday but then accused the East Germans of reneging on it.

East Germany countered by declaring that both sides had agreed upon the text of a settlement but that the West Berlin government then made additional demands.

Chancellor Willy Brandt said in Bonn that differences within the East German Communist Party leadership apparently prompted the turnabout. Brandt said he still expects the accord — and a second one completed but still unsigned — to be initialed "sooner or later."

The official East German news agency ADN provided no details on the new demands it said West Germany made, but it termed the items unacceptable.

The wrangling produced a second postponing of ceremonies to mark the agreements. One accord covers access between West Germany and Berlin, the other between the Communist and non-Communist sectors of Berlin itself.

The signing was postponed the first time last weekend when the East Germans accused West Berlin negotiators of reneging on agreed terms, the same accusation made Wednesday by the West Berliners.

The two agreements will set down detailed procedures for access into and within Berlin as agreed generally in the four-power accord signed on Sept. 3 by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

It was assumed that the East German objections would make another meeting of East-West Berlin negotiators necessary. But even with the last-minute dispute, it was apparent the unprecedented all-German accords were within reach and negotiations continued.

West Berlin Mayor Klaus Schuetz used a special session of the West Berlin City Parliament to appeal to the East Germans to accept what he called agreed terms.

"We stand by the result," he declared.

20-Foot Fraser Fir Placed in White House

Washington (UPI) — First Lady Pat Nixon Wednesday personally accepted a 20-foot Fraser fir Christmas tree for the White House from the North Carolina Christmas tree growers.

"Well, I think Christmas has already started," Mrs. Nixon said as she came out of the executive mansion to look at the tree that had been hauled from plantation of Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett Farmer in Crossnore, Avery County, N.C.

She plucked off a piece of the branch from the tree, which was wrapped in burlap and still in a huge van, and took a whiff of the evergreen.

The Christmas tree will be placed in the Blue Room and workmen, under the direction of Henry Callahan of Saks Fifth Avenue, will start decorating it Thursday. The White House will be closed to public tours Friday and Saturday to permit it to be decorated.

Soviet Scientists Mystified

Moscow (UPI) — Soviet scientists are confident their robot explorer was too sturdy to be damaged by wind after its landing on Mars but they do not yet understand why it went dead, official commentators said Wednesday.

The orbiting Mars 3 spacecraft dropped the unnamed robot onto the wind-swept Martian surface Dec. 2. After a successful landing, official reports said, it briefly transmitted video signals but then mysteriously went silent.

Commentators, not usually so candid in their reports, indicated the robot had been built to withstand the hurricane-force dust storms that have been raging on Mars.

Scientists were reported mystified over the equipment failure. "Right now we can only guess why it happened," said Prof. M. Marov, a physicist who was quoted in the government newspaper Izvestia. "It is important to remember we knew very little about the physical conditions in which the soft-landing apparatus touched down."

War Jets Out In Force Over Red Supply Lines

Saigon (AP) — Hundreds of U.S. and South Vietnamese warplanes were out in force Wednesday over Laos and Cambodia in a massive campaign to cut the Communist command's supply lines.

The U.S. Command also disclosed three air engagements over North Vietnam on Tuesday but said no American jets were hit by the surface-to-air missiles and antiaircraft artillery fired at them.

Informants said the heightening of the air war over North Vietnam is evidence that the U.S. air campaign against the Ho Chi Minh Trail in neighboring Laos is "beginning to hurt them."

"The North Vietnamese are trying to do their best to stop it," said one informant. "There is a lot of air working over the trail and a lot of cross-border fringing from the North Vietnamese side into Laos. The North Vietnamese are putting all their resources together to stop bombing of the trail. The amount of antiaircraft fire is heavier than last year."

Informants also disclosed that the South Vietnamese air force has joined in attacks against the Ho Chi Minh Trail for the first time in the war, but in a limited way.

"The South Vietnamese participation will grow as time goes on," said one source.

Informants reported sensors along the Ho Chi Minh Trail indicated that North Vietnamese trucks carrying war supplies had registered 300 movements daily in recent days along the trail network, an increase of 100 over the traffic two weeks ago.

American bombers and gunships, the informants claimed, are knocking out an average of 40 to 50 trucks a day.

The big North Vietnamese push of arms and ammunition southward to sustain offensives in Cambodia and operations in South Vietnam now is under way, and is expected to increase as the dry season reaches its peak in January and February.

U.S. photo reconnaissance planes show still more supplies and trucks along the North Vietnam-Laos border waiting to move.

As the North Vietnamese increase their supply movements, the United States will intensify its air attacks. Since the Ho Chi Minh Trail is North Vietnam's only gateway to the south, Hanoi is expected to fire more on American warplanes to defend the network. This, in turn, will bring U.S. retaliation, escalating the air war.

American raids and reconnaissance flights around the key entry points onto the trail, the Ban Karai and Mu Gia Passes, triggered the latest round of engagements.

The Ban Karai pass is 35 miles north of the demilitarized zone dividing the Vietnams, and the Mu Gia is 70 miles north of the DMZ.

In Cambodia, fighting broke out near a large prison at Prey Sar, eight miles south of the center of Phnom Penh, and air strikes were called in, a dispatch from the capital said.

Villagers were fleeing into Phnom Penh and informants said the government feared the enemy might try to strike into the capital along the road from Prey Sar. The road passes near Premier Lon Nol's villa.

Help To Continue

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam pledged continued military help to Cambodia amid reports of increasing concern by the United States over the situation around Phnom Penh.

Thieu made his remarks to some withdrawing Australian troops at Vung Tau, a port southeast of Saigon.

Thieu held a two-hour meeting Tuesday with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of American forces in Vietnam.

Snow Drifts 15 Feet High In Central South Dakota

By The Associated Press

North-Central South Dakota was hit by a blizzard Wednesday that piled snow into drifts 15 feet high, blocked secondary roads and isolated some farms.

A foot of new snow carried by 30 m.p.h. winds buried Lemmon, near the border between the Dakotas, and sheltered areas had drifts 15 feet deep.

New snow also accumulated at Mobridge, Selby and Timber Lake in the wake of a storm that socked the area Sunday.

Travel on main roads was treacherous and authorities said many farm roads were blocked and rural residents isolated.

Heavy snow accompanied by numbing cold lashed most of the high plains in the Rocky Mountains.

Hazardous traveling conditions also prevailed for northwestern Texas and northern Oklahoma in the path of freezing rain, with blowing snow pelting eastern Colorado and western Kansas.

Temperatures dropped to 20 below zero in parts of Montana.

Prisoner Releases Pondered

©The New York Times

Saigon — Informed government sources disclosed Wednesday that the South Vietnamese government is considering the release of Communist prisoners of war this holiday season, but they insisted that no final decision has been made on the matter.

Reports have circulated in the Saigon press and in government circles that several thousand Viet Cong and North Vietnamese POWs will be released for the Christmas, New Year and Chinese New Year holidays. The reports add that thousands more may be granted the status of rallier to the Saigon government.

The reported plans are said to be based on the allies' hope that such a unilateral goodwill gesture would lead to a reciprocal release of some American POWs from camps in North Vietnam.

Proxmire Breaks; Supports Rehnquist

Washington (UPI) — With supporters moving to end what they called a filibuster, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., broke with liberal colleagues Wednesday and told the Senate he will vote to confirm William H. Rehnquist to the Supreme Court.

"My friends almost unanimously oppose him," said Proxmire, "but I have become convinced that the case has not been made that Rehnquist does not understand or support the Bill of Rights or the other safeguards of liberty in the Constitution."

After Proxmire's defection from the liberal bloc, 25 Republicans and two Democrats filed a cloture petition to shut off debate on the nomination in an effort to confirm Rehnquist before Congress adjourns for the year.

A vote on the debate-limiting move will automatically occur Friday morning unless the Senate unanimously agrees to change the time.

Two Southern Democrats, Sens. James O. Eastland of Mississippi and Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina, signed the cloture petition, indicating that southerners will help provide the two-thirds majority needed to shut off debate.

Rehnquist, meanwhile, acknowledged that he wrote a memo in 1952 endorsing the "separate but equal" doctrine which the Supreme Court overturned in its 1954 Brown decision.

In a letter to Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Rehnquist said he prepared the memo "as a statement of Justice (Robert) Jackson's tentative views for his own use."

"It is absolutely inconceivable to me that I would have prepared such a document without previous oral discussion with him and specific instructions to do so," said Rehnquist, who was a law clerk for Jackson.

'Reasoning' Supported

"In view of some of the recent Senate floor debate, I wish to state unequivocally that I fully support the legal reasoning and the rightness from the standpoint of fundamental fairness of the Brown decision," said Rehnquist in reference to the 1954 ruling.

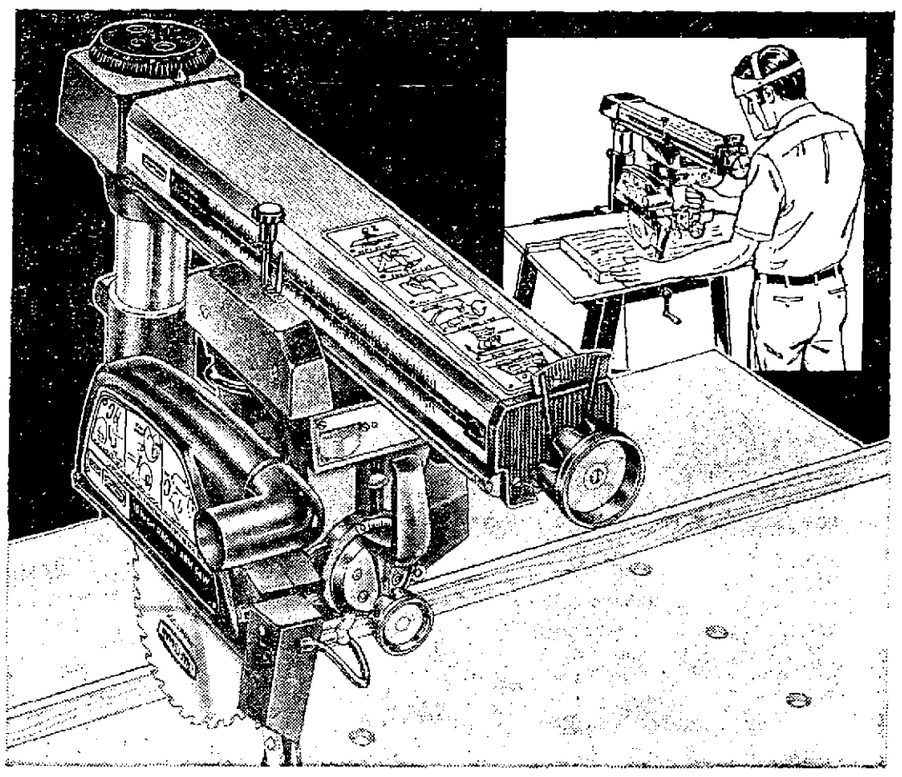

The Senate debated the nomination of the Justice Department's legal counsel for the third day and almost all of the time has been spent by liberals in opposition to it.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott, meanwhile, said he would file a petition for cloture to shut off debate on the Rehnquist nomination by Friday or Saturday. Such a debate-stopping device requires the approval of two-thirds of those present on the Senate floor.

'Charade'

With debate in its second full day, Scott said, "we're going through a charade where those who are devoid of a case are using time as a substitute for logic."

But Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., Rehnquist's supporters were "trying to stick this nomination down the throats of the U.S. Senate because they seem to fear that with the passage of a little time something else might be disclosed."

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Widow Tired Of Living With Bossy Daughter

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: — "I'm 68 and in fair shape except for arthritis of the hip. When my husband died my divorced daughter insisted I sell the house and share her two-bedroom apartment She's good to me except that she's extremely domineering She teaches social work at the college here and takes the view that aged parents are better off living with their children than in institutions But I don't really like living with my daughter — I'm alone most of the day and get so bored What I'd really like is to move to a retirement home sponsored by the Masonic Order my husband belonged to Everyone has his own room there and I'd have lots of different people to talk to and could feel independent But Jane says I'm better off here and insists she knows best What can I do?"

Answer: — Become a little domineering yourself If your daughter is so concerned about elders she should attribute to them some sense about their own welfare and permit them to do as they wish

Question: — "John has a particularly heavy beard and just about every morning for some 40 years of marriage I'd hear him groan in the bathroom as he started his 10-minute shaving process I used to say that when he retired from the bank he could forget about shaving, but didn't think he'd take me literally Well he's been retired six months now and makes Santa look like a piker Beards may make some men look distinguished but John just looks like an ugly cactus in full bristle I don't like to have him touch me this way, and feel embarrassed when we go out as everyone stares — yet I know how painful and difficult shaving is for him. What can I do?"

Answer: — A retired banker can surely afford a weekly barbershop shave Let him enjoy his turf all week without shaving, with the proviso that every Friday he visit a barber who will slash off the stubble. This way he can remain forever retired from personal shaving chores, and you'll have a sweet-shaven spouse for weekends

Question: —"When I was 65 I had a talk with my wife and suggested we could maintain our standard of living if she would go to work when I retured on a pension. She agreed so last year she got her first job—selling dresses in a department store She loves work and I love play Why don't more couples try this, instead of complaining about living on skimpy incomes after the old man retires?"

Answer: — Sounds great—maybe you've latched on to a brilliant new formula for successful retirement But something tells me few women would go for it Most housewives have developed a pattern of living which they wouldn't care to trade for a 9 to 5 job Males traditionally have been the family breadwinners and until Men's Lib starts making some headway women aren't going to let Papa talk them into going to work

Creighton Orders Cheerleaders To Stand During National Anthem

Omaha (AP) — Cheerleaders for Creighton University will be required to stand during the playing of the National Anthem before basketball games, school officials said Wednesday

Tom Burke, vice president for student personnel, said he has advised 12 cheerleaders that if they felt unable to comply with the ruling, they would need to resign or be suspended from the cheerleading squad

At Creighton's first two home basketball games, a group made up of mostly Negro students has remained seated during the anthem and the cheerleaders voted to leave the floor Eight of the 12 are blacks

In a statement. Burke said, 'We recognize the prerogative of individual students to remain seated during the playing of the anthem as a protest against perceived inequities between races in this country

"But cheerleaders, as officially designated Creighton representatives, must accept the obligation to communicate the university's position and attitude. This is not a responsibility which can be overriden by personal considerations," he said

Food Stamp Changes Cause Workload Increase

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Omaha — Changes in the food stamp program which became effective Dec. 1 are resulting in considerably more work for welfare offices throughout the state, according to State Welfare Director Lawrence Graham.

Graham, who addressed persons attending the Nebraska County Officials Association meeting in Omaha Wednesday, said in visiting with welfare directors he had learned that the new program is "putting a real burden" on them.

He urged the welfare directors to send him letters concerning the problem so the information might be presented to the US Department of Agriculture which has jurisdiction over the food stamp program.

"We (welfare departments) are not reimbursed for taking care of it in anyway," Graham said.

Lancaster County officials indicated last week that the added paper work and checking which is necessary under new regulations was going to require many more staff hours, but that the freeze on the number of personnel prevents their hiring any additional persons to handle the increased work load.

In discussing the welfare reform bill expected to be acted upon by Congress by March 1 and at what level welfare should be controlled, Graham said that he didn't feel that county commissioners and supervisors in Nebraska realize what is happening to the welfare program

He said that 48 8% of the welfare case workers throughout the state are over 65 and many directors are 65 years old or older.

"I'm not saying these people are too old — thank God for these people, for without them the program would have been in a lot worse shape."

He said county welfare workers don't work just eight hours, adding that he wondered how many of the county commissioners would be willing to put in that kind of time when they are 65 or older.

He said that young people are not going to the counties with as few as six or seven welfare cases to get experience, but instead are going to the larger cities.

If the state takes over the welfare, it must also assume the responsibilities for medical costs, Graham said, noting that there should be at least one person in each of the counties so that persons within the counties may take their welfare problems to someone on the local level.

The cost of welfare is continuing to rise, he said, adding that he didn't know how much longer state or federal government will go along with paying 100% of the state administration.

"Between 25 and 27 counties in the state are at their levy maximum," he said. "How much further can we go?"

Graham said he felt one of the major benefits of having local participation in public welfare is that no one knows better than the local community what the needs of that community are.

He promised "many changes before long," pointing out that State Senator Richard Marvel had said that either the state welfare director do something or the legislature would take over.

County Officials Told, 'Courtroom Combat Zone For The Law Revolt'

Omaha — "The courtroom is the combat zone for the law revolt," county officials attending the 77th annual convention of the Nebraska Association of County Officials were told Wednesday by a California lawyer whose firm represented the late Jack Ruby, charged with murder in connection with the death of the assailant of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Lou Ashe of the Beverly Hills firm, Belli, Ashe, Ellison, Choulos, and Lieff, in speaking on "Equal Justice — Myth, Misnomer or Miracle," told the county officials that "these are strained times to speak of equal justice."

Ashe told the officials that if those who love their country do nothing more at meetings similar to their association meeting "then rededicate ourselves to the proposition that the government of the United States is in reality one of the people and for the people, and that the courts, judges, legislators, and congress have no valid existence apart from the will of the people . . we shall 'have merited the angels' glow which lights the star'."

He said that the nation faces considerable difficulty in arriving at a concensus as to what changes these times demand.

"In this decade we must pursue with the vigor or an inspired counter-revolutionary every avenue the imagative mind can conjure up to reassure the dissolutioned, the depressed, the frustrated, and the victims of poverty . . . that there are methods short of violence and destruction of public and private property and the sacrifice of human life to achieve their legitimate and lawful claims," the trial lawyer said.

"We seek to preserve our form of government and our judicial system with briefs and not bombs, with argument and not anarchy," he said

However, as he noted that to accomplish this certain basic philosophical concepts of the nature of legal process must be adopted

He said to channel change requires the offering of direction and "we as servants and beneficiaries of our system of justice and its administration, must find the means to give fluidity and vitality to the law to meet the dilemmas of our times."

"If necessary, we must prove again and again that the great genius of the American law is its own ability to meet the social, economic and technological pressures of our time," he said

Ashe noted that the courtroom must be the combat zone if the nation that 'exemplies freedom to the unfree, democracy to the undemocratic, and justice to the unjust is to survive"

"This is not to say that the militancy — the fervor, the desperate enthusiasm of our youth — of those who demand rightful change should be curtailed," he noted.

He said that perhaps the liberty bell has been silent too long for "we know for whom the bell tolls," he said, adding

"Let us then rededicate ourselves to pulling the ropes with the enormous and irresistible strength of free men who mouth no abstract aphorism when with hand over heart they say: 'one nation under God indivisible with liberty and justice for all'"

This Week's Health Tip

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska Medical Association

Christmas decorating can cause home accidents unless you use some caution

While putting up your tree, be sure to leave plenty of room for walking space Use a strong sturdy ladder for putting up decorations

Throw away worn strings of lights that have bare wires or broken sockets as they are a fire hazard and can also produce electric shock

If you are stringing lights outside, make sure you use rubber gaskets on the bulbs to keep moisture from entering the sockets All electrical connections should be tight and waterproof

Keep your tree well-watered beginning the day you purchase it and remove it at the first sign of dryness

Also, gather up and dispose of used ribbons and Christmas wrapping once you have opened packages A lighted match or careless cigarette dropped into a pile of paper has caused many Christmas tragedies

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

In the letters column this week was a communication from an older driver, complaining about the difficulty of passing the driver's examination test. Thrown in were a few remarks about the high cost of driving a car and keeping the family supplied with auto transportation.

The writer had some good points, although his position presents some conflicts that are hard to resolve. The claim that the test is tricky, especially for older people, has some merit. The claim that some of the test questions lack validity is also not without merit.

The writer asked, for instance, of what importance it was to know the shape of signs. What counts, he argued, is what the sign says and that you are able to read it. We are inclined to agree with him.

Some of the other questions and answers are equally of questionable merit. How important is it that you know how far behind an emergency vehicle you must remain? Who in his right mind is going to follow on the heels of such a vehicle and who could keep up with such a vehicle in normal traffic, anyway?

The question about the purpose of yellow traffic lights has an answer but it is no better answer than several others that common sense might dictate. What counts is that people know they are not supposed to enter an intersection on the yellow light but that answer would give you an incorrect reply on the tests.

In fact, that answer is not even one of the possibilities you have for an answer. We still are of the opinion that the driving tests should be revised and turned into something with more meaning and more common sense.

The writer suggested that older drivers be given credit for safe-driving records and that the issuance of a license be at least partly contingent upon such a fact. This sounds good and perhaps could be done but it has some weaknesses.

★

The fact that an individual has driven safely for 50 years does not mean that he or she is still capable of doing so. Unfortunately, the human mind and body deteriorate over the years and the physical and mental state of the individual at the present time determines his driving ability, not his state of being in years gone by.

When it comes to driving, things should be a little easier this year from a snow-removal point of view. Lincoln's city government has been cranking up for snow removal this year as though its life depended on the matter.

Maybe the political lives of its elected officials do depend on it. Last year, Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's administration came in for a good share of criticism for a snow-removal job that really didn't seem all that bad to us. But a lot of people don't like the job.

This year, the job will undoubtedly be done better, with better organization and better equipment. But you don't get something for nothing. You may pay for snow removal this year in a number of ways.

More men and equipment will cost more tax dollars, of course. Additionally, there are more stringent public regulations in connection with snow removal this year. The city intends to enforce its snow-removal parking regulations and this means the clods who have always ignored the law in the past are likely to be ticketed or have their cars hauled away.

They are clods because they defy the law as though it didn't exist. Either they do not know or do not care on which side of the street they are supposed to park after a snow storm. If they don't know, it is their own fault because the parking regulations are widely and frequently publicized.

Also, it is unlawful to pile your own snow on public rights-of-way and the city is talking about enforcing this law this year. That means after the snow plows have been down a street, you can't fill them up again with the snow you remove from your own walks and driveway.

This won't mean much to most people but it will have an impact on some commercial snow-removal operations on private property where the streets are considered a dumping ground. The city this year is all-out to do a job and woe to the guy who gets in the way.

Secretary-General Post Up For Grabs In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The candidates are off and running for the job which has sometimes been described as "the conscience of mankind." Secretary General U Thant is suffering from a bleeding ulcer and says that under no condition will be continue after his second five-year term expires on Dec. 31.

Gossiping in the Delegate's Lounge of the U.N. General Assembly, the representative of tiny Burundi told Editorial Research Reports: "It is an interesting situation. Neither the big nor the small powers are making their position known." An Egyptian delegate, on the other hand, said that the Big Five appeared to be bargaining on a compromise candidate. "Everything depends on whether they want a chief executive who is a figurehead, or whether they opt for an activist."

Max Jakobson, 47, Finland; Kurt Waldheim, 52, Austria; Felipe Herrera, 49, Chile; Endalkachen Makonnen, 44, Ethiopia; and H. S. Amerasinghe, 58, Ceylon, are the leading contenders at the moment. Makonnen, for example, has been actively campaigning in France and England.

Although the framers of the U.N. Charter left the powers of the "chief administrative officer" rather vague, the method of selection is explicit. Under Article 97 of the Charter, the Security Council submits a single name to the General Assembly for approval.

The Security Council recommended Trygvye Lie of Norway as the first secretary-general on Jan. 29, 1946. However, Lie became unacceptable to the communist bloc when he took a position four and one-half years later against the aggression in Korea. This led to a complete breakdown of negotiations in the Security Council over a second term for Lie. Finally a compromise was reached in which Lie's tenure was extended for three years. In 1953, he resigned the post, calling it "the most impossible job in the world."

Dag Hammarskjold of Sweden was elected by a vote of 57 to 1 on April 7, 1953, to replace Lie and later went on to win a full term of his own in 1957. Hammarskjold's messianic devotion to duty also brought him the wrath of the Soviets, particularly over his role in the Congo. Nikita S. Khrushchev suggested the secretary-general be replaced by a triumvirate.

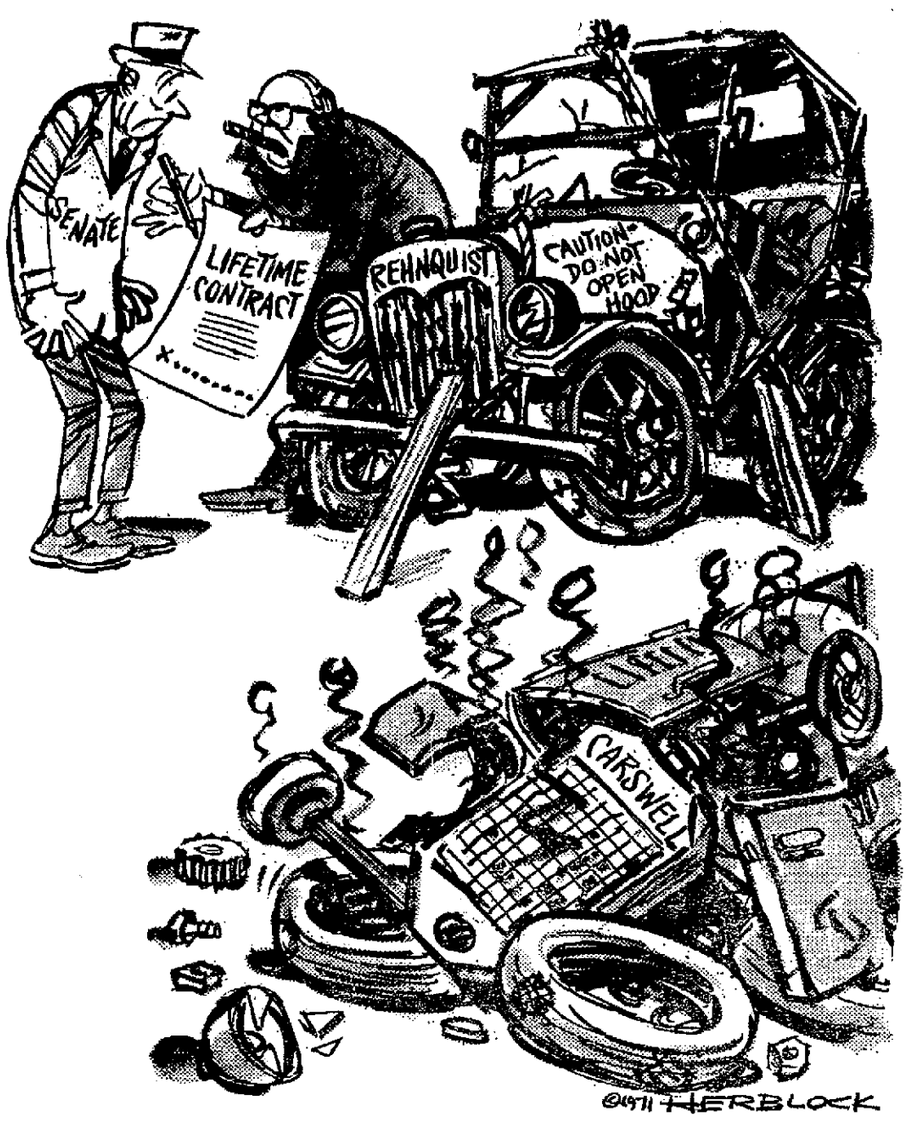

U Thant, who had been Burma's ambassador to the U.N., was regarded as one of the least qualified and least known of all the candidates for the post. Thant's darkest hour came during the 1967 six-day war when he precipitously agreed to withdraw a U.N. Emergency force from Egypt's border. Israel thereupon invaded the Sinai peninsula. This led to Thant's being publicly called a "tower of jelly."

Speaking to the U.N. Correspondents Association, U Thant said that the office of secretary-general "is, of necessity, developed through trial and error and in response to the demands and challenges of the passing years." He then went on to say that "each secretary-general must build as best he can on the office as he inherited it."

U Thant called his $62,500-a-year post "the most challenging political job on earth," but he has clearly had enough.

Child-Care Veto Predicted

There may be some drawbacks to the administration of the new child-care program passed by Congress, but not enough to give President Nixon an easy out. He will have to put up or shut up on his previously-expressed commitment to American children of preschool age.

The child-care program would provide medical, nutritional and educational services for preschool children in locally run centers. The services would be free to children from families with an annual income of under $4,320 per year while fees based on a sliding scale according to income would be charged for other children. Priority for participation in the program would be given to working mothers.

Conservative opposition to the day-care bill ranged from its estimated cost of $2 billion during the first year of operation, the contention that local administration of the program, the way it is set up under the bill, will prove cumbersome and unworkable and into the fantasy world of claiming that such a program will somehow "communize" youngsters. GOP leaders told congressional Republicans just before the vote that a veto was certain if the House passed the bill and White House operatives circulated the same message. Nevertheless, the bill passed the House 210 to 186 Tuesday and it now goes before the President.

Speaker Carl Albert said the bill presented the House with the "paramount moral vote of the session." He recallled that in a message to Congress two years ago Nixon called for "national commitment to providing all American children an opportunity for helpful and stimulating development during the first five years of life." The subject of preschool child care was brought up during the earlier presidential campaign also. Speaker Albert added. "Although President Nixon has changed his mind more than any other president in my memory, I don't think he would change his mind on the need for helping children."

Albert used the situation beautifully to apply the partisan needle. But apparently the President has changed his mind. What opportunities does Nixon envision for preschool youngsters? Perhaps the veto message will explain them.

Big Lift For Muskie

Hopes among rival Democratic presidential contenders that Sen. Edmund Muskie's undeclared but frontrunning campaign for the nomination might "peak too soon" dimmed significantly Wednesday.

Muskie has been comfortably ahead of everybody else sniffing down the White House trail most of the time since 1968, when his excellent performance as a losing vice presidential candidate gave him permanent voter recognition and, in varying degrees, respect. He has been ahead of everybody, that is, except Sen. Edward Kennedy, who of late has led all Democrats in the public opinion polls.

And, of late, Muskie's unofficial campaign has been coasting, not rolling along. But Tuesday it was reported that the junior senator from Maine will formally announce his bid for the presidency on Jan. 4, two days before the filing deadline for the New Hampshire primary.

And Wednesday, the junior senator from California, John V. Tunney, endorsed Muskie as his unqualified choice for the Democratic presidential nomination. Although Tunney is only in his first term, he is considered to be the most populous state's leading Democrat. He probably will head the largest — 271 members — delegation to the convention at Miami Beach in July. And he is a close friend of Sen. Kennedy.

Sen. Tunney said Wednesday that in endorsing Muskie he is taking Kennedy at his word that he is not a candidate. This does not bind the future to a preordained course. An unforeseen combination of factors could make Kennedy run, or a deadlocked convention turn to Kennedy in 1972.

But in view of the personal and political friendships between Tunney and Kennedy, Tunney endorsement means much to Muskie with the start of the primary season a scant four months away.

Polls May Be Interpreted In Numerous Ways; Kennedy, Muskie, Humphrey Demo Big Three

NEW YORK — At first glance, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy looks mighty good in the latest Gallup poll of Democratic presidential possibilities. Of the 1,411 Democrats queried in 280 localities in late November, 29 per cent preferred Kennedy to top the ticket next year, as compared to only 25 per cent who opted for the so-called front-runner, Edmund S. Muskie.

But things are not always what they seem—not even the polls, which is a point that needs to be better understood, on the eve of a campaign year in which they will play an important part. It is not a matter of downgrading political opinion surveys, particularly since both Dr. Gallup and Louis Harris, the most widely read practitioners of the art, proved remarkably accurate in advance measurement of the 1968 results.

Rather, the point is that the headline aspect of a particular poll—Kennedy leads Muskie—does not necessarily suggest its true significance; and sometimes what a poll does not show, or emphasize, or the circumstances in which it was taken, are its most useful characteristics. In the case of the recent Gallup findings, for instance:

While Kennedy is five points ahead of Muskie among the Democrats surveyed, it is equally possible to read this poll as showing that substantially less than one-third of them favor a Kennedy presidential nomination next year. It is true that the field is at the moment as cluttered as the Italian parliamentary scene, but 29 per cent does not seem particularly impressive for one of Kennedy's name, heritage and personal glamour.

By contrast, Muskie at 25 per cent and Hubert H. Humphrey, the party's Old Faithful, at 19 per cent, command between them a solid 43 per cent of the Democrats surveyed. While the poll does not show second choices, that 43 per cent probably is pretty squarely in the middle of the party spectrum, and it is permissible speculation that many Muskie and Humphrey backers, in extremis, would turn to each other's man rather than to Edward Kennedy.

Interestingly enough, moreover, it was not Kennedy but Humphrey who registered the biggest gain. Since the previous poll, in September, the former vice president picked up six points, against a gain of only one point for Kennedy—another suggestion that this poll most nearly favors middle-road Democrats.

Both of these gains, generally speaking, were made at the expense of Muskie. Does that mean Muskie is fading? It may, but the more likely possibility is that it really reflects the difficulty of his having been the "front-runner" for more than two years. During that time, it has been impossible for Muskie to win any victories or otherwise consolidate his position; inevitably, in the same period, he has made some controversial decisions and remarks, offending some Democrats. So it is not really surprising that, as time dulls the memory of Kennedy's experience at Chappaquiddick and of Humphrey's involvement in the Johnson administration and the campaign of 1968, both should begin to score against a candidate who almost necessarily seems to be standing still.

There is, of course, nothing there that a Muskie primary victory or two could not cure — particularly since Kennedy will not be running in any of them and, if Humphrey's advisers can chain him down, he will be coming in only in the later primaries.

However any of that may turn out, the new Gallup poll, most importantly, suggests how unlikely it is that anyone other than one of the Big Three — Kennedy, Muskie, Humphrey — will be nominated next year. Collectively, they were the choices of 72 per cent of the Democrats quieried, a fact which reflects not least the power of name identification; for they are the only three potential Democratic nominees already known to all. No one else could show more than 6 per cent — not Mayor Lindsay with all his novelty and glamour, or Scoop Jackson with his solitary position on the right of the spectrum, or George McGovern with his superior organization, or Eugene McCarthy with his standing as the mystic dragon-slayer of 1968.

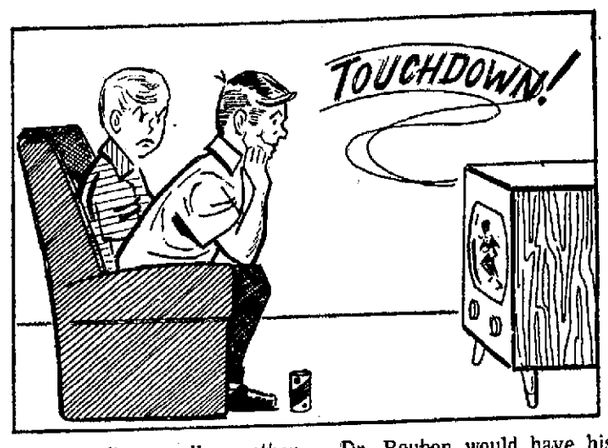

Finally, this kind of poll really poses a free, almost abstract choice; which man do you prefer out of many? In fact, most primary voters will have to make hard specific choices — Muskie, McGovern or Sam Yorty in New Hampshire, for instance; and so will most delegates, since the field is likely to narrow steadily in the months between now and the Miami Beach convention.

The most specific choice of all, of course, will be made in the polling booth next November, between Richard M. Nixon and Mr. X of the Democrats.

Patchwork Prairie Country

The morning sun shone pleasantly for awhile but suddenly there was a cold shadow as a cloud passed between earth and sun. The sky grew dark and all the brilliant light of early morning changed into a gray shroud. By mid-morning the barren tree branches were canopied in white. Snow covered the not-quite-asleep earth and draped the plum thicket in an ermine coat. December is making the decisions now and from here on out, we will bow to its brashness or gentleness, whatever the mood of the moment may be.

Several weeks ago Little Lad crayoned a picture for me . . . Santa Claus outside a house with lights decorating the front entrance and a Christmas tree at the side of the steps.

Today I told him I had put the picture on my wall and had happy thoughts whenever I looked at it. His eyes beamed with happiness that I should display his picture. Then he asked in his childish way, "Did you have happy thoughts about baking Christmas cookies?"

I had to smile in spite of myself. Now, isn't that typical of a little boy to think of cookies?

"Yes, and I'll bake some extra ones for you if you think you would like some."

In an instant he reassured me that he would like a box of Christmas cookies.

☆ ☆ ☆

One family Thanksgiving dinner that had a funny side to it was told to me. It seems while planning the menu, the rolls were overlooked . . . at least that is what several of the ladies thought. The upshot of it all was that one woman baked six dozen dinner rolls, another lady brought five dozen brown-and-serve rolls and another party brought two loaves of homemade bread. No doubt for years to come, this Thanksgiving dinner will bring a host of smiles as everyone talks of the rolls and rolls that overwhelmed the family dinner.

What to do on a Sunday afternoon when The Farmer sits immobile in front of the TV set watching a football game is something of a problem but one that many women have, no doubt, who aren't that wild about the game.

Dear Abby would probably say, be glad he isn't out running around with another woman. Ann Landers would say, get a group of the girls together and find entertainment suitable to all the ladies. Norman Vincent Peale would say, think positively. It's a harmless pastime, the players are getting good exercise, all the people in the stadium are having a happy day, so sit the day through and pretend you are enjoying yourself and you will soon find yourself a fan, too.

Dr. Reubon would have his own particular analysis and say the husband is unhappy in marriage. Sigmund Freud perhaps would attribute it to the fact that he needed to see the game to satisfy his own ego by putting himself in the place of the hero of the game.

So what does that leave for me to say? Nothing. I go into the kitchen and cook up a storm. Last Sunday evening we had a family dinner and I was floating on a cloud while fixing goodies and sniffing the turkey.

The week before I spent some time with recipe books and made a batch of cookies that were elegant. They will later be the Christmas cookies that Little Lad was promised. I was glad the sugar and shortening had to be mixed together with the hands and crumbled until it was the consistency of corn meal, chilled and rolled out for cutting. In that way I managed to make the cooky-making session last as long as the football ame. Next Sunday afternoon I am going to make candy . . . but I do hope when the games end, I haven't added too much weight.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

On behalf of the many elderly men and women in our community, I wish to express their gratitude and ours to the volunteer individuals and organizations that have helped to make the project called "Audio Altar for the Elderly" a meaningful and rewarding Christian experience in services for others.

The American Bible Society cassette tapes, the stereo head sets, the cassette players were all made possible by these efforts and are now providing hours of companionship, comfort and enjoyment for the elderly who can longer read for themselves, but they can listen to the comforts of the Holy Scriptures and favorite hymns and special messages of encouragement. But even more important to them, they know that someone cares. This means so much to the lonely whose pleasures are extremely limited.

Nebraska Float

Lincoln, Neb.

We wish to thank the Cornhuskers for their tremendous response to our Orange Bowl Float Fund Drive last year. Contributions brought pride to our state, university and the nation's Number One football team in the float which we were able to purchase. It is for similar reasons that we are again conducting a float fund drive.

To have a float, we must raise $7,500 by Dec. 20. Because of this time limit, we are appealing to all Nebraskans to send contribution that will go toward building a Nebraska float.

Contributions should be sent to Nebraska Float, c-o Corn Cobs-Tassels, P.O. Box 81556, Lincoln, Nebraska 68501.

Nebraskans have been rewarded and entertained with the nation's top football team. The team has been recognized for their efforts by being given their second consecutive Orange Bowl bid to defend their Number One ranking. Nebraska's Bob Devaney has also been awarded the Big Eight Coach of the Year title.

Thousands of Nebraskans are planning to make the trip to Miami to enjoy the game and festivities that surround it. The Cornhuskers would be proud to show their float to the people from other states and will also be much more interested if they can say this float is "ours."

Corn Cobs and Tassels are organizations that are designed to promote and support athletic endeavors at the university. We are concerned with the problems of pollution, race relations, and other such pressing issues, but we also emphasize that there is place for fun in our society. It is in the line of enjoyment and pleasure that we categorize the float.

It also seems valuable to present an image to the nation that the people of Nebraska are enthusiastic and excited about the great qualities of their state.

Thadeus, Endora

Lincoln, Neb.

"Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse." This was because the cats were on their toes and knew that this was their department.

They were two sleek, green-eyed Siamese. The father was "Thadeus" and his daughter, "Endora." There were moments when they sat motionless like statues, their tails curled primly around their front feet, with a complete air of royalty.

Most often it was Endora who disrupted the quietude. With beauty of motion, she seemed to float from the top of the refrigerator to the electric stove, the kitchen table and down to the floor. Her father hissed and swatted her with clawed paw but she seemed to laugh as she pounced upon his angry twitching tail. The game was on as they leaped from furniture to furniture, room to room. It was fun until she missed her expected perch and landed in the open toilet bowl. The cold water shocked her briefy but her frantic clawing and cried of insulted dignity soon brought the family flying. They laughed before they grabbed the dripping kitten to dry her. After that, she shied away from the bathroom door.

Thadeus in manly dignity every morning followed the man of the house into the bathroom, leaped lightly upon the wash bowl and watched in fascination every brush of lather, every movement of the razor, not moving until the man washed and dried his face. Then softly he landed on the floor, to walk away in puzzlement as to how or why anyone would want to cut off his whiskers. Thadeus would then sit licking first one paw, then the other, proudly washing and combing his own lovely long whiskers.

Political Spending

Blair, Neb.

If I were a member of the Nebraska Democratic Central Committee, I would strongly oppose any effort by anyone at this time to any more than talk about the possibility of a Nebraska "check-off" for any kind of "voluntary or involuntary" contribution to any political party.

Further, in my opinion, the great majority of Democrats in this country are definitely not a part of the move by Congress to raise money to conduct presidential campaigns in essentially the same way.

I am not convinced that this is the way to combat the well-heeled special interest Republican polical campaign chests. Big money corrupts, from whatever source it comes. There are better ways to control the huge expenditures in political campaigns.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank John Prasch, superintendent of the Lincoln public schools, and the staffs of each high school for the cooperation our department received in handling the football games at Seacrest Field this season.

The pride and anguish of victory and defeat of an athletic event can be a strong stimulant leading to difficult situations. However, each school can take pride in the manner in which its student body conducted themselves while cheering their teams.

State Cannot Reimburse Parents Of Handicapped

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

A request for state reimbursement of educational expenses incurred by the parents of 12 multi-handicapped children was rejected Wednesday by the State Justice Department.

The Justice Department opinion said the State Board of Education can only pay directly for the expenses under a 1971 law providing funds for the education of multi-handicapped children.

State Attorney General Clarence A. H. Meyer said:

"In other words, the State Board of Education can only pay the statutory authorized expenses of the child directly; it cannot pay any such expenses indirectly by reimbursing parents who have personally paid such expenses."

Jack Lamphere, director of special education, said the opinion was requested because the parents of 12 of the 19 children in the program had asked to be reimbursed.

As a result of the opinion, Lamphere said:

"In the future the parents of the multi-handicapped children will probably be asked to pay for the children's education to the extent of their ability."

As of now, however, Lamphere said no money has changed hands between the Department of Education and the parents.

"This is why we requested the opinion," Lamphere said.

The special education director could not say how much the parents had asked for.

"The amount varies," he said.

The nature of the requests ranged from assistance with residence and transportation on up to tuition which the parents had paid for.

The bill which the parents sought reimbursement under is LB977 sponsored by Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway and John DeCamp of Neligh and the corresponding appropriation bill.

The law budgeted $102,206 for fiscal 1972 to programs designed to educate 19 multi-handicapped youngsters and $59,950 to the Omaha Medical Center for developing such a program.

"We know of no statutory authority," Meyer said, "whereby the State Board of Education could reimburse the parents of a multi-handicapped child who has personally paid any of the expenses."

Another question raised by the Board of Education was whether the board was allowed to expend funds for the actual educational program for the multi-handicapped children.

Meyer held, "We are of the opinion that the State Board of Education may expend funds appropriated . . . the education and training of multi-handicapped children."

LB977 provides for the evaluation and diagnosis of the disabilities, the medical treatment, the development of an educational plan and the coordination of supportive services at the local level. There was some question whether it provided for the actual education and training.

Non-Productivity Aiding Inflation, Peterson Claims

Democratic senatorial candidate Wallace Peterson Wednesday suggested that one cause of inflation is the fact that "nearly 15% of America's workers are non-productive."

They are either unemployed or serving in the armed forces or producing military hardware, Peterson said.

"This is one example of our desperate need for a reordering of priorities," Peterson told a Lancaster County Democratic luncheon meeting.

"We can't hope to tackle our many domestic problems effectively until we find ways to bring this part of the labor force back into productive employment."

And it is unlikely that inflation can be avoided in the future with 12 million people in a labor force of 87 million diverted from productive activity, Peterson said

Sheriff Cited In A Pursuit After Robber

Boise, Idaho (AP) — Sheriff Paul Bright of Ada County was given a traffic ticket for going through a red light too fast — that's right — during a chase after a bank robber.

Bright's car following a police car that also went through the light, smashed into another car, causing minor injuries.

Policeman Russell Reneau, who signed the citation Nov. 29, said Bright went through the red light "without slowing sufficiently enough to insure safe operation."

The driver of the police car was not cited.

The bank robber was caught.

Roland Casburn, Carl Rafert and Dwight Schell were elected to the Board of Stewardship; Elmer Schroeder and R. Michael Troester, Board of Evangelism; Ted Brandt, Richard Buhlman, members at large; and Robert Luebbe and Wilmer Schmidt were elected to the Lincoln Lutheran school Association.

Larry Behrends was elected to the Allied Council; Arvin Faig, Lutheran Family Service; Lee Lohrberg, public relations, and Elmer Schroeder and Arthur Dederman, the Trinity Lutheran Foundation.

Trio Will Discuss Wild West Arena

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP) — A three-member steering committee has been appointed to discuss the present and future status of the state's Wild West Arena at North Platte.

Mayor Robert Phares, representing the city; Ken Hornbacher of Nebraskaland Days, and Jim Kirkman, Chamber of Commerce president, will comprise the committee.

Atty. Don Kelley was selected to provide liaison between the state and the committee in all matters pertaining to the arena.

Fourteen North Platte business and professional persons, representing organizations closely involved with the arena since its conception, met to coordinate and unify continued interest in the Wild West Show as major tourist attraction of the state.

The group reaffirmed North Platte's interest and enthusiasm in further developing the facilities.

It was agreed that all local matters pertaining to the arena will be directed to the steering committee for discussion and clearance. The committee will meet regularly to review progress in further developing the arena cooperating with the state where evere possible.

The Buffalo Bill Wild West Show, which originated in North Platte, and performed at the arena for a month in August, went on the road in September, but folded in California due to a lack of funds.

A lawsuit filed by Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus contested the use of the show's name and asked $1 million from the show's director, Monte Montana Jr.

Although an Arizona court threw out the suit, problems and expenses in defending the suit discouraged the show's backers and it was forced to close in San Diego.

Montana said plans are being made to reorganize the show.

H. Wilhelms, 81, Dies At Bruning

Besides his widow, Minnie, he is survived by three sons and one daughter, Alton Wilhelms, Stromsburg, Neb., publisher; Virgil, Ellert and (Darlene) Mrs. Arnold Norder all of Bruning.

NU Close To Recommending Long-Range Plan

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner Wednesday assured the Legislature's Appropriation's Committee that the university is close to recommending a long-range plan for program planning.

"By May, we hope to nail down a five-year plan of action," said Varner at the start of a day-long hearing on the university's 1972-73 budget request.

He said preliminary considerations on the plan should be ready for review by the Board of Regents, students and faculty members next month.

Varner's comments came in response to questions from Committee Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings, who noted NU had been criticized by the North Central accreditation association and a mangement study firm for having "no long-range plan."

"Where's the weakness?" asked Marvel.

Varner responded he believes criticism about planning is a "legitimate complaint" and added, "We are moving to correct that."

Varner and C. Peter Magrath, interim chancellor for the Lincoln campuses (UNL), told the budget committee that NU will evaluate present programs with an eye to cutting back in some areas and strengthening others.

They were among several university administrators, students and faculty members who appeared to ask the committee for support for the 1972-73 request of $86,816,842, nearly $50 million of which would be monies from the state's general fund.

The request would represent an increase of more than 11% over the current fiscal year's total in the all-funds category, and more than 15% in general funds alone.

The current year's all-funds (total) estimated expenditures have been set at $78,119,318, compared with $71,963,580 in 1970-71.

The 1971-72 general fund appropriation was $43,139,578, compared with the previous year's $41,860,937. The university is requesting a general fund appropriation of $49,997,393 for the 1972-73 budget, or an increase of about $6.8 million.

Varner told the committee the increase represents about one-third of the increase the university recommended last year, when NU's request was cut back severely by the Legislature at the recommendation of the committee and the governor.

"We do not bring a budget based on legitimate needs of the university, but on political reality," said Varner.

He appealed for committee support for a request based on a 5% salary and fringe benefits increase for faculty and professional staff members, and $300 per position for the non-professional staff.

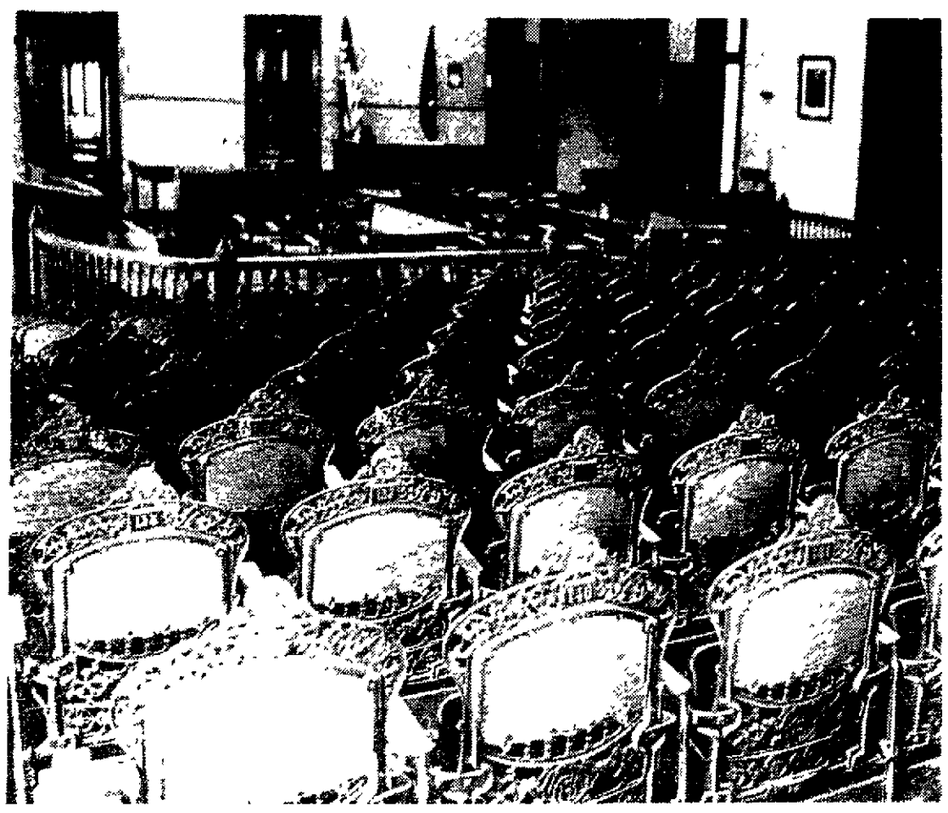

The budget request also assumes a 3.5% inflationary factor for most purchases, and although it requests funds to strengthen programs in several areas, seeks no monies for new programs.

It would also supply an additional boost for the NU at Omaha campus at a cost of about $900,000 to increase state support for that institution, which Varner said is "severely underfinanced."

Many of the committee's questions, particularly from Marvel, sought university plans for program planning and for detailed justification of requests for more faculty and staff members.

Marvel asked specifically for a breakdown of the proposed additions in staff and operating expenses for the university-wide budget, administered directly by Varner's office.

The NU proposal would separate all of those expenditures from the UNL budget, where they have been placed in the past.

MODERNIZATION PLAN . . . wouldn't alter theater-type seating.

Remodeling Talk Creates Controversary In Courtroom

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Fairbury — Few cases in the 80-year history of Jefferson County's district courtroom have frothed up more controversy than the one being "tried" here these days.

With the purse-holding county commissioners serving as "jury," the question is how far to go in modernizing the quaint old room. Suggestions have ranged from an all-out $49,000 remodeling to leaving the room untouched.

It now appears that the results will be somewhere between, but County Board Chairman Glenn Stewart said "nothing is definite except that we're modifying the $49,000 plan considerably." The matter will probably remain under study for several weeks.

District Judge William B. Rist of Beatrice and several local attorneys requested the remodeling. The Jefferson County Historical Society, on the other hand, has presented the signatures of more than 500 persons urging that the room be "left intact . . . or altered as little as possible."

Caught in the Middle

"We're caught in the middle," said Stewart, who must weigh the situation along with fellow commissioners Harry Wathor of Diller and LeRoy Hinz of Plymouth. "We feel the judge's request is reasonable but also can see that the room's decor should be preserved."

After a joint meeting which even attracted three representatives of the Nebraska State Historical Society, it appears that the main controversy is some proposed wall paneling. Judge Rist's request to rebuild the jury box closer to the witness stand also is at issue.

"I want people to be comfortable but have no intentions to radically change the room," said the judge, appointed to the bench seven months ago. "My primary concern is the working area of the court. Certainly some new tables and chairs are badly needed there."

Rist said the paneling would be "the only real change in decoration." There is no proposal to replace the room's 198 ornate theater-type seats.

Mrs Frank Knocke, Historical Society president, said her group has agreed to a lighting improvement but "is very much against the paneling and changing the jury box." Their opposition, she said, would extend to "any alteration which would preclude restoring the room to its original condition."

Historic Site Registry Eyed

Persijs Kolberg, historic site curator, said at the recent meeting that the proposal might interfere with the courthouse's chances of being listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The Nebraska State Historic Preservation Board intends to recommend the building soon, he said.

Some of the most costly alterations, according to Stewart, would involve sound proofing the jury room and equipping it with private restrooms. These apparently are not controversial.

The board is also considering an acoustical curtain toward the rear of the room, some carpeting and possibly the removal of a door. The judge's bench and an antique railing are among the features which would not be altered.

Board Okays Disposition Of Four Branch Libraries

The future of four of the city's branch libraries which have been phased out following the opening of new library facilities was decided Wednesday by the Library Board.

The board approved turning over the Havelock and College View branches to the city for disposition. Library director Charles Dalrymple said that there was no further use for the building in Havelock. However, the board recommended that the City Council make the College View branch library available to Union College for its use.

Dalrymple reported that the University Place branch will be available for disposition following an auction of the former library's furnishings. No date yet has been set for the auction.

The Northeast branch, located at 27th St. and Orchard, was originally scheduled to be closed last month along with the other branches. However, a number of residents protested its closing to the Library Board and to the City-County Planning Commission at its Nov. 17 meeting.

The planning commission noted the desires of certain people to keep the Northeast branch open and suggested a joint discussion between the City Council and Library Board to determine its continued use.

In the meantime, Dalrymple said the Northeast facility will remain open until Mar. 1 on a temporary basis.

The commission also recommended that the library property in Havelock be retained by the city for park purposes.

In other action, the board approved a revised price schedule for replacement of lost materials. Dalrymple said the current allotment did not cover the actual replacement costs of books, fiilms and other materials which were either lost or not returned to the libraries.

Livestock Waste Control Discussed At Annual Nebraska Beef Seminar

Exeter — The basic requirement facing Nebraska livestock feeders in control of livestock wastes is that "all livestock waste be retained on the owner's or operator's property."

Steve Pilcher of the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control (DEC) cited this key provision of the Nebraska regulations on livestock waste control during an afternoon session of the eighth annual Nebraska Beef Seminar held here Wednesday.

In a review of Nebraska's Water Quality Standards which specify that feedlot wastes must be effectively controlled by December 31, 1972, Pilcher noted that to date some 200 livestock waste control facilities developed by Nebraska stockmen have received approval by the Department of Environmental Control.

According to conditions of the 1971 Environmental Protection Act, "operators who haul or transfer livestock wastes to fields will need to take appropriate steps to keep these wastes in a place and in a manner to keep these wastes from being carried into streams or otherwise creating a nuisance."

The Act passed by the Nebraska Legislature this year created the Department of Enviironmental Control and the Environmental Control Council. The Council, composed of 16 members, is responsible for establishing controls for pollution of any air, water or land in the state.

Although the 1972 deadline for implementation of feedlot waste controls is in effect, Pilcher noted that any livestock feeder who is considered to be in current violation of the Environmental Protection Act will be asked to take immediate steps to correct the problem rather than waiting for the set compliance date.

He added that the Act and the Water Quality Standards make no distinction as to persons involved, type of wastes or source. "Rather, we are concerned with the effect on Nebraska environment."

George L. Kyles Bound Over On Assault Charge

George L. Kyles, 21, of Omaha was bound over to Lancaster District Court on a felony assault charge after waiving preliminary hearing before County Judge Ralph Slocum.

Another man arrested in connection with the incident, Robert Brooks of Lincoln, has pleaded guilty to the assault charge and sentencing is pending in District Court.

No country has had so much publicity about health problems than Mexico. Tourists come here with pills enough to open a drugstore.

They have the latest scam from the doctor.

Even American doctors are affected. Doctors have given me all kinds of advice. Some are nervous as any tourist lady. Some are philosophical: "If you get it, take these."

Mexico made effort a few years ago to change the image. A Mexican doctor insisted the internal distress was caused by altitude.

"Spend the first few days quietly," he said. "Take afternoon naps."

☆ ☆ ☆

Down at Prandes they don't worry about such things. They have a famous cure for the hangover. The waiters have been there for a hundred years. Their Tuxedos are shiny with wear.

The hangover cure is called a "bull." Pronounced "bool."

The waiter said: "Fill the glass with ice." (He doesn't think the ice is bad for you. Or maybe with a hangover, who cares?)

"Over the ice pour one-third rum, one-third beer, one-third Orange Crush. It is a sure cure."

☆ ☆ ☆

At Prendes they bring tequila—the clear, white tequila—with lemon and salt. On the side they bring a slice of cheese and some radishes.

"Don't eat anything raw that you don't peel yourself," say the guidebooks. I write that myself sometimes. But I don't pay attention to what I write.

I eat the radishes. I've been eating at Prendes many a healthy year. I don't want to break my luck.

☆ ☆ ☆

True that people have come down with internal distress in Mexico. I don't think it's as widespread as the publicity.

You don't say that to visitors though. Most tourists are convinced the turista is issued with the tourist card. Only the pocketful of pills keeps hhem alive.

"My doctor gives me these," said the tourist lady. "One before each meal." Her pills were green demons.

The other lady shook out her pills—red devils. She suid her doctor told her to take one after meals.

☆ ☆ ☆

Americans who live here get a touch once in awhile. But one of them told me: "People get the same thing in Pasadena. They come down here and they expect to get something

"It's part of the adventure. They go home and say: 'First we went to the museum. Then we went to dinner. Then I didn't feel very well. Then I took my pills. Then I was all right.' "

There's a bunch ff doctors with offices in one of the big tourist hotels. They are all becoming wealthy, passing out pills and sympathy.

5 Children See Father Executed

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) Five children saw their father executed in front of the family television set Wednesday night in another bloody episode of Northern Ireland's internal strife.

Sean Russell, a militiaman in the Ulster Defense Regiment, was gunned down by a squad of terrorists who also sent a bullet into the leg of his 10-year-old daughter, Geraldine.

At about the same time, in a Belfast hospital, British Army Maj. Jeremy Snow died of head wounds suffered in a gun battle near Paddy McGurk's bombed-out bar over the weekend.

Fifteen persons were killed in the explosion that wrecked the McGurk tavern.

The latest deaths brought the fatality toll to 188 in 28 months of violence sparked by Roman Catholic resistance against the Protestant-based government of this British province.

Authorities said Russell, 32, was watching television with his five children when there was a knock at the door. One of the children opened the door and the gunmen burst in.

Police said they were obviously guerrillas of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Police said one gunman walked up to Russell and demanded: "Are you Sean?"

"Yes," he replied.

Two shots rang out. Russell fell dead with a bullet in the head and Geraldine collapsed with a leg wound.

"This shooting has all the hallmarks of an IRA execution," police said.

Food Distribution Control To Be Taken Over By Chile

©The New York Times

Santiago, Chile —President Salvador Allende Gossens announced Wednesday that his leftwing government would take full control of food distribution in Chile as part of an "offensive against fascist sedition."

The government took control of three major wholesale distributors and put 22 cattle auction markets under state management.

Allende, speaking before a national congress of the Central Labor Union, called for the organization of "neighborhood vigilance committees" to control supplies and prices in stores, meat markets, pharmacies and other private local outlets.

Last week, the opposition Christian Democratic and National Parties organized a major protest march by women, banging empty pots, as a symbol of anti-government sentiment over food supply problems, particularly shortages of meat, dairy products and poultry.

This "march of the empty pots," in which 5,000 women took part before police fired scores of tear-gas grenades to disperse them, has been taken by Allende's "popular unity" government as a political challenge.

Yeutter Leaving USDA Post For Nixon Campaign Spot

Washington (AP) — An Agriculture Department official whose duties include overseeing some of the government's most important consumer programs will resign effective Dec. 31 to help round up farm votes next year for President Nixon.

Clayton Yeutter, administrator of the Consumer and Marketing Service, will join the Committee to Re-elect the President, Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz announced Wednesday.

Yeutter, 41, whose resignation had been expected for some weeks is from Lincoln, Neb. He has a 2,000-acre farming operation near Cozad, Neb. He took over as head of the USDA agency on Oct. 1, last year.

Before joining the department, he headed a University of Nebraska Agricultural mission in Bogota, Colombia. Earlier he served two years as executive assistant to then Nebraska Gov. Norbert Tiemann.

Washington (UPI) — Frank C. Porter, national labor and economics reporter for the Washington Post, died Wednesday at a local hospital where he was taken Monday after collapsing at a restaurant.

Before his death, Porter's body was sustained mechanically until a recipient for his kidneys was ready for transplant surgery.

Fanfani Backed By Italian Party

Rome (UPI) — The Christian Democratic Party, kingmaker in Italy's last six presidential elections, Wednesday night nominated four-time premier Amintore Fanfani as its presidential candidate.

The Socialist Party nominated Deputy Premier Francesco de Martino as its candidate. Incumbent Giuseppe Saragat had the backing of his own Social Democrats for the election.

Morrison To Drop News Bar Request

Omaha (AP) — Douglas County Public Defender Frank Morrison and his assistant, Bennett Hornstein, said Wednesday they plan a 9 a.m. news conference Thursday to discuss the relationship of the news media to the criminal justice procedure.

Morrison said that the public defender's office intends to withdraw its motion to exclude the news media from the preliminary hearing of Robert Julian Jacobs, who is charged with the murder of 12-year old Allen Schmidt of Omaha.

The Omaha World-Herold, the Lincoln Star, the Lincoln Journal, KLNG radio in Omaha, and Meredith Broadcasting Corp. which operates WOW radio and television in Omaha, previously intervened in the case to object to the motion by Hornstein to exclude the news media.

Nixon Proposes Pension Reforms For Worker

Washington (AP) — President Nixon proposed Wednesday pension reforms which would allow all workers to claim tax deductions for contributions and provide some guarantees they could retain their retirement funds even if they lose or change their jobs.

In a special message to Congress, the President wrote that the overhaul could both "do a great deal to protect the rights of the average American during his working years and . . . enhance the quality of his life when he has retired."

One key proposal would allow any employe to deduct pension contributions up to 20% or $1,500, whichever is less, from his taxable annual income.

Presidential counselor Peter Flanigan told newsmen at the White House that 14 million workers would be expected to claim deductions, with about 70% of the tax benefits going to persons with incomes below $15,000.

Flanigan called the reform measures "the biggest step forward for retirement security since the enactment of Social Security."

"Fifty per cent of American wage earners," said Nixon, "are not in private group plans at the present time and . . . have no tax incentive for investing in retirement savings as individuals."

And many other workers, he said, are enrolled in plans which provide benefits "they regard as insufficient or which do not insure that the benefits . . . will actually be available when they retire."

Currently, Nixon noted, only 30 million employes are covered by private or employer-financed retirement plans. "This fact alone," he said, "demonstrates the need to encourage greater private saving for retirement."

On another major point, the President sought to establish a limited "vesting" for all workers now enrolled in company or group plans. Vesting means the employe does not lose the right to his benefits even if he leaves the job.

Nixon's vesting guarantee would be applied under a so-called "rule of 50"—meaning that a person whose age and total years of participation in a plan if it adds up to 50 would be entitled to at least 50% of his accrued pension benefits. He would receive an additional 10% vesting each year after reaching the rule-of-50 mark.

Hence, for example, a worker who begins participating at age 30 would reach 50% vesting at age 40 and 100% at age 45.

Flanigan said that currently only 31% of the nation's work force is enrolled in pension plans which provide any form of vesting.

He said the reforms would cost the federal government some $300 million in tax revenues in the first year, climbing to $350 million in the second, $410 million in the third and $480 million in the fourth.

Another feature of the reforms would boost the tax deductions already allowed self-employed persons who establish their own pensions from 10% of income to a new limit of 15% or $7,500, whichever is less.

Sickle Cell Anemia Bill OKd, 81-0

Washington (UPI) — The Senate passed 81 to 0 Wednesday a bill authorizing a three-year, $142 million battle against sickle cell anemia, the deadly blood disease that affects one in 10 American blacks.

The bill was sent to the House, which is considering a similar measure. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., chairman of the Senate's health subcommittee which handled the legislation, said he was sure the House would take "early action."

About $100 million of the funds — which must be appropriated in other legislation — would go to support clinics where the black community could get tests to determine if they have the disease or carry the genetic trait that could be passed on to their children.

Spending To Climb

About $6 million is being spent on sickle cell anemia this fiscal year. The bill would boost this figure to $33 million in fiscal 1973, $49 million fiscal 1974 and $60 million in fiscal 1975.

Kennedy said many problems connected with the disease have been neglected by white America, "like most other things that affect black Americans."

Sickle cell anemia is named for the peculiar shape into which it disorts blood cells. The trait developed many centuries ago in Africa as a defense against certain types of Malaria. The disease affects primarily blacks.

It is estimated that 2.5 million black Americans carry the sickle cell trait and 50,000 more suffer from the disease. Those who are born with the disease — about one of every 500 black babies — die before they reach 40 and about half of them before they are 20.

Periodic Attacks

Victims suffer periodic attacks of excruciating pain and are highly susceptible to other diseases.

President Nixon in his health message earlier this year said sickle cell anemia was second only to cancer in his program of health priorities. Congressional conferees finished work on legislation this week for a three-year, $1.6 billion battle against cancer, but the administration opposed the sickle cell bill on grounds sufficient action already was under way.

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., ranking GOP member of the subcommittee, said one of his staff died of sickle cell anemia two years ago at age 29.

Dobson Apparent Low Bidder For Sewage Treatment Plant Addition

Dobson Brothers Construction of Lincoln was the apparent low bidder Wednesday for the Theresa St. sewage treatment plant addition, bidding $4,924,250.

Construction is slated to begin in January, 1972, with completion in one and a half to two years, according to Public Utilities director Lee Blocker.

Six other companies placed bids with the city to construct the addition which will double the capacity of the plant to handle sewage. Blocker said that the plant currently handles an average of 15 million gallons of sewage per day.

Other bidders included Olson Construction Co. of Lincoln, bidding $5,073,680; Leuder Construction Co. of Omaha, bidding $5,161,000; Weitz Co. of Des Moines, bidding $5,507,000; U.S. Enviro Construction Co. of St. Louis, bidding $5,697,000; Acton Construction Co. of Hugo, Minn., bidding $5,793,850; and Massman Construction Co. of Kansas City bidding $5,970,000.

Yule Trees Are Exempted From Controls

New York (UPI) — Christmas tree vendors got an early Christmas present from the government Wednesday — the word that Christmas trees are exempt from price controls

Tree purchasers, however, also got some good news — the ruling only applies to natural trees and does not include those sprayed with fireproofing material widely used on yule trees these days

Tree vendors will be allowed to charge whatever prices they wish for natural trees, classified as "raw agricultural products" by the Internal Revenue Service which announced the rulings. Raw natural products are exempt from price controls

However, if the trees are aluminum, sprayed with paint or prooting material or treated in any way, they fall under the price controls.

Five Young Men Arraigned On Felony Drug Charges

Five young men were arraigned on felony drug charges Wednesday in Lancaster County Court as the result of several raids jointly made by Lincoln Police and State Patrol narcotics officers

Four were charged with the delivery of a controlled substance known as lysergic acid amide.

They were Gerald Steven Kierstead, 18, of 6855 Bethany Park Dr., Gary Eugene Nelson, 17, of 3235 T; Dexter Gray Wulf, 22, of 1809 Jefferson, and James Scott Gray, 19, of 3235 T.

The fifth defendant, Christopher Kim Rasmussen, 20, of 3235 T, was charged with delivering marijuana.

All requested preliminary hearings and were released under $2,000 bonds

Judge Ralph Slocum set preliminary hearings on Dec. 22 for Rasmussen. Wulf and Gray, and on Jan. 19 for Kierstead and Nelson

Two other youths, arrested in the raids were charged on misdemeanor complaints with being in a place where a controlled substance was being used

Police Inspector Robert Sawdon said the arrests resulted from a lengthy undercover investigation jointly made by State Patrol and Lincoln Police narcotics divisions.

"More arrests will be made as a result of the investigation," he said.

Sawdon said the raids at four Lincoln locations resulted in the recovery of a "large quantity" of hallucigens (LSD), marijuana, methamphetamine (speed), and other paraphernalia for drug use

Pope Prays Before Statue

Rome (AP) — Pope Paul VI knelt in prayer Wednesday before the statue of the Virgin Mary in downtown Piazza di Spagna in his traditional salute to the Virgin on the feast of the Immaculate Conception.

The Pontiff was greeted by a crowd of 10,000 persons who jammed the square and the streets around it. After a brief prayer, the Pontiff drove off to visit two ailing Italian cardinals.

Stockbrokers Warned Against Subordinating

Washington (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission Wednesday warned stockbrokers and dealers against luring new customers by promising to subordinate their securities accounts

Under the practice, securities customers are told they can claim ownership of certain securities against which they can borrow money to buy new stocks.

While earning interest on the securities, the customer does not really own them, the SEC said. Instead, the broker-dealer retains real control.

In a statement, the SEC said it has learned of several violations of the securities laws involving subordinated accounts and warned brokers that they may be violating antifraud provisions of the law.

House Passes $3-Billion Aid Bill Bearing $400 Million For Israel

Washington (AP) — The House passed Wednesday a $3-billion foreign-aid money bill bearing $400 million for Israel and none for India, Pakistan and Ecuador — with Senate leaders still saying they will refuse to consider it.

The vote was 214 to 179.

With present spending authority for foreign-aid and defense expiring at midnight, House and Senate leaders consulted on putting out a stopgap interim extension — possibly into next year — but came to no early agreement.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, whose six-month Indochina war deadline has the House and Senate deadlocked over renewing foreign aid, refused to give up the deadline.

"I will not cave in," Mansfield said.

Passed By House

The $3 billion foreign aid money bill was passed by the House after worried leaders appealed to it not to kill the bill and a bloc of foreign-aid supporters who had threatened to vote against it because of cuts announced they would reluctantly accept it.

We cannot just plunge out of this business," Speaker Carl Albert appealed to the House. "All of us hope to see a gradual decrease of foreign aid but we must support this bill."

Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford told the House U.S aid in the bill was vital to the security of the Middle East and to the safe withdrawal of U.S. forces from the Indochina war.

Aid for India and Pakistan was barred as long as they are at war. The ban on $15.5 million slated for Ecuador was voted Wednesday because of that country's seizure of U.S. fishing boats.

The proposed slash of $100 million in U.S. contributions to United Nations programs was retained in the bill Wednesday despite efforts to cut the reduction to $50 million.

Leaders stressed the money bill included some $400 million in aid to Israel, $300 million in weapons credit and $100 million in military aid, as a political carrot to try to get it not only through the House but through the Senate as well.

House Appropriations Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., told newsmen he would refuse to accept the Senate's $500 million for Israel amended to a defense bill, with the result the Senate could get Israeli aid only by accepting the foreign aid bill.

Approval of the money bill was an effort by House leaders to bypass the House-Senate conference deadlock over Mansfield's war amendment in the separate bill to reauthorize the foreign aid program.

Apollo 16 Set For Rollout

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 16 command and lunar ships were placed atop a Saturn 5 rocket Wednesday, ready for rollout to the launch pad next Monday.

The two spaceships and their protective metal shroud were transported from a checkout building to the Saturn 5 assembly building and were hoisted by crane to the top of the giant rocket.

The complete assembly will be moved to the launch pad Monday, and crews will begin the lengthy preparations for a planned blastoff to the moon on St Patrick's Day, March 17

Astronauts John W. Young, Charles M. Duke and Thomas K. Mattingly are to fly the 12-day mission, with Young and Duke slated to land near the Crater Descartes in the moon's central highlands

In San Diego, Calif., the U S. Navy's 1st Fleet announced that the aircraft carrier Ticonderoga will be the prime recovery ship for the Apollo 16 moon mission, the first such duty for a big flattop. Previous recovery ships have been amphibious helicopter carriers.

A spokesman said the splashdown site of the manned lunar mission, next to last in the current series, will be in the South Pacific.

Draft Law Doesn't Contain 90-Day Moratorium—Judge

Los Angeles (AP) — The 1971 Selective Service Act doesn't contain a 90-day moratorium on the involuntary induction of men into the armed forces, a U.S. District Court Judge ruled Wednesday.

The decision by Judge Irving Hill came on a class action suit by the American Civil Liberties Union that halted drafting of young men from seven Southern California counties and stopped processing of draftees at the Los Angeles Armed Forces Induction Center.

There was no immediate word when the inductions, held up by the Selective Service after a ruling by U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas would resume.

Induction Barred?

The ACLU contended the 1971 draft law, effective Sept. 28, contained a provision barring involuntary induction for 90 days — or until Dec. 28.

The provision was put in the 1948 Selective Service Act and never dropped in each succeeding act, the ACLU contended.

But the government said the provision was only intended for 1948 to allow for time to set up the draft machinery.

The suit was filed for draft registrants in Los Angeles, Orange, Santa Barbara, San Bernardino, Riverside, Ventura and San Luis Obispo Counties.

After rejection by a three-judge federal court panel, the ACLU asked Douglas to intervene and he sent the matter back to the U.S. District Court here.

ACLU attorney Nathan Zahm said he would not appeal Hill's decision to the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Similar suits have been filed elsewhere in the nation. Federal appeals courts rejected the suits in Boston and New York earlier this week.

Security Council Urges Admitting Arab Emirates

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — The Security Council unanimously recommended Wednesday that the newly-formed United Arab Emirates be admitted to the United Nations.

The nation was formed Dec. 2 by six trucial states in the Persian Gulf — Abu Dhabi, Dubai, Sharjah, Fujairah, Ajman and Umm al Qaiwain.

The General Assembly must act on the application.

Angela's Trial Will Be Held In San Jose

San Jose, Calif. (UPI) — The Angela Davis trial will be held in this city of 450,000 on the south end of San Francisco Bay, it was announced Wednesday.

Preiding Santa Clara County Superior Court Judge John T. Racanelli said the decision to hold the trial in San Jose rather than in Palo Alto, where Miss Davis is currently held in jail, represented the "consensus" of the county's Superior Court judges.

Labor Leader Calls Price Controls 'Farce'

Cleveland (UPI) — A national labor spokesman said Wednesday that preliminary reports from a coast-to-coast price monitoring program by the AFL-CIO indicates "widespread evasion and violation" of price controls.

"In the face of highly flexible price controls and totally inadequate enforcement, the price control program is a farce," said Leo Perlis, who coordinates the nationwide price monitoring program for the labor federation.

Perlis urged the Price Commission and the Internal Revenue Service, which is enforcing the wage and price controls, to "crack down on retailers who have raised prices in violation of the commission's general guidelines."

Perlis, in remarks prepared for a rally sponsored by the Cleveland AFL-CIO Federation of Labor, said many retailers had been found to have raised their prices in violation of a Price Commission rule that they keep prices frozen until the frozen prices are posted in the stores.

The labor official did not give any specific examples of violations.

Perlis urged consumers to monitor prices of food, rent, health services, clothing and other goods and services, and to report immediately to the IRS and to AFL-CIO price monitoring committees any suspected violations.

NU Housing Policy Protest Nets Pledge

By CHARLIE HARPSTER
Star Staff Writer

After more than 25 persons unexpectedly filled his office Wednesday in a four-hour protest of University of Nebraska housing policy, off-campus housing director Wayne Blue said he feels that the Poorhouse Coalition "accomplished what they came for."

Blue said the protest brought about recognition of the group's grievances and a pledge from housing officials to arrange a meeting of UNL administrators with the group.

President D. B. Varner and interim Chancellor C. Peter Magrath were in budget hearings and not reached for comment. Housing Director Ely Meyerson said he would contact the administrators Thursday in an attempt to arrange a meeting.

Seven demands were presented to housing officials by the coalition, which includes the City-Wide Tenants Association, Welfare Rights, Home and Neighborhood Development, the Black Concern Group of Lincoln, the Air Park Citizens Tenants' Association, the Lincoln Indian Center, Lincoln On Utility Problems, and the Tenants Advisory Committee.

The demands called for the university to:

—Replace, in cooperation with the Lincoln Housing Authority and representatives of area citizens, all low-income dwellings destroyed by UNL expansion to the east.

—Plan and implement the building of 4,000 dwellings for married students to eliminate competition between married students and permanent low-income families.

—Liberalize UNL dormitory regulations and expand UNL housing facilities to accommodate more than 9,000 students living off-campus.

—Discourage placement of married students under the housing authority lease-rent program except in extreme hardship cases.

—Immediately end all alleged UNL policy of using the LHA to place married students.

—Reject the current campus plan and adopt a policy to preserve and rehabilitate the Malone and Clinton neighborhoods.

—Within 30 days, arrange with the coalition a meeting of the UNL president, interim chancellor, housing director, Regent Edward Schwartzkopf, UNL coordinator Wayne Kunel and ASUN president Steve Fowler.

In an interview, Blue said he feels UNL housing officials are reluctant to build housing for married students in Lincoln because of the competition with private real estate and housing interests.

He added that because of the increase of low-income persons in Lincoln, UNL housing officials "must become more concerned in this area."

"The problem is going to grow," he continued, "and we will have to come to grips with the problem before long. The question before us is: What is the correct procedure, what should we do?"

He said the charge that UNL housing officials encourage married students to seek housing through the LHA is false. While it is no secret that 35 to 40% of LHA housing is occupied by UNL students, he said, "the NU administration had nothing to do with this. No student has received preferential treatment from the housing authority — they have to qualify the same as low-income people," he said.

Blue said he feels the Poorhouse Coalition "should definitely have recognition." He added, "But I'm sure that responsible (university officials) are aware of the problem."

Blue recommended that the LHA, property owners, landlords, low-income groups and UNL approach the problem jointly.

ASUN Members Can't Agree On Abortion Fund Proposal

Members of the University of Nebraska student senate (ASUN) disagreed Wednesday on whether to consider a bill which would set up a fund to help finance legal abortions out of state for persons who could not afford the operation.

The bill, suggested earlier by a senator who since has resigned, would set aside $1,000 for paying transportation or medical costs. Under the bill, a maximum of $150 would be loaned, with repayment due within six months or the second semester after the abortion.

Of about 25 senators present, nine voted in favor of having an abortion fund bill drawn up and eight voted against considering such a bill.

The sponsor of the bill said funds would not come from student fees. A suggestion was to use money from the ASUN student record shop.

Sen. Roy Baldwin said he opposed the bill because $150 is not a sufficient amount. He said he favors setting up a student credit union which could loan students money for a variety of reasons and which had a system for collections.

American, Briton Freed In Jessore

Calcutta (UPI) — A young American woman held in a Pakistani jail since early October for illegally crossing the border from India with relief supplies was freed Wednesday when Indian forces captured the garrison town of Jessore.

The American woman, Ellen Connett, 28, of Dumont, N.J., was returned to Calcutta with another prisoner, Gordon Slaven, 20, a Briton. Mrs. Connett said they were escorted into Indian territory by "Bengali liberation fighters."

Mrs. Connett and Slaven, members of a British relief organization called Operation Omega, had been arrested Oct. 4 by Pakistani soldiers in a small village near Jessore. They were tried later that month and sentenced to two years imprisonment.

BRANDEIS IS CHRISTMAS COUNTRY

Poll: Public Feels U.S. On Road To Recovery

By LOUIS HARRIS

Louis Harris

By 49% to 23%, most Americans agree with the statement that "President Nixon is putting the country on the road to economic recovery." But by 56% to 27%, a majority of the public also believes that the United States is still in a recession. The dominant public mood is that the direction of the economy may be turning around, but the new economic measures in Washington still have not had a profound or visible impact.

Ironically, the degree of confidence which the public possesses as consumers can make a pivotal difference in whether recovery takes a longer or shorter time to achieve. For there is strong evidence that when people are worried about a recession or uncertainties over their jobs, they pull back from making the purchases of goods and services so vital to expanding economic growth.

A cross section of 2,004 households was recently asked about purchases plans regarding major items which had been put off during the past year: "Are there some major products you have postponed buying in the past year or so that you plan to buy in the next few months or not?"

PLANS TO BUY

	Total Public
Will buy soon	15%
No plans to buy	79%
Not Sure	6%

When people who plan to make purchases they have put off during the past year were asked what they planned to buy, autos led the list by a wide margin:

BUY WHICH PRODUCTS

	Total Public
Autos	6%
Household furniture	2%
Washers, dryers	2%
Refrigerators, freezers	1%
TV sets	1%
Carepting	1%
Clothing	1%
Other (scattered)	1%

The automobile industry has been surging ahead in new car sales recently, presumably under the impetus of the promised roll-back of the $200 auto excise tax. These latest results would indicate that demand for new cars is reasonably strong.

The Harris Survey also put another question to the cross section on the number of people who are putting off purchases of major products "due to the uncertain times we live in:" "Are there some major products you have wanted to purchase which you are still putting off due to the uncertain times we live in or not?"

MAJOR PURCHASES BEING POSTPONED

	Postponed Purchases	Not Putting Off	Not Sure
November, 1970	31%	65%	4%
November, 1970	36%	61%	3%
November, 1966	22%	75%	3%

Compared with last year, five per cent fewer people are deferring purchases of major products than they were then.

This result would presage a more optimistic outlook, at least compared with the state of public confidence a year ago. However, back in more normal times in the fall of 1966, the Harris Survey found no more than 22% of the households of the country who then were delaying buying major products because of uncertain economic conditions.

If the 22% mark for deferred purchases can be assumed to be the rate of "normal" postponement of people's buying and the 36% from 1970 is viewed as a "peak" in slowdown of new purchases, then the current postponement rate of 31 percent shows progress just less than half way back to normal consumer confidence.

At the same time that consumer confidence as measured in willingness to buy appears to be on the rise, a majority of the public still persists in believing the country is in a recession. As in several previous Harris Surveys over the past year, people were asked:

"Do you feel the country is in a recession today or not?"

IS COUNTRY IN A RECESSION OR NOT?

	Is	Is Not	Not Sure
November, 1971	56%	27%	17%
September	55%	26%	19%
August	62%	24%	14%
July	62%	25%	13%
May	63%	23%	14%
March	65%	21%	14%
November, 1970	62%	24%	14%

Compared with a year ago, the number who see the U.S. in the throes of a recession has declined substantially. Yet, persistently a majority still feel themselves to be in the midst of a recession, despite the protestations of economists to the contrary.

A new force for more optimism is the confidence which most people have that the President's new economic program will finally work. The cross section was asked: "All in all, in his Phase II economic program, do you feel President Nixon is putting the country on the road to economic recovery or not?"

WILL PHASE II LEAD TO ECONOMIC RECOVERY?

	Total Public
Putting country on road to economic recovery	49%
Not doing it	23%
Not Sure	28%

By better than two to one, the public has confidence that Phase II will turn the economy around eventually.

Herefordland Days Set At Grand Island

Grand Island (AP) — Herefordland Days, three days of snows and sales under a single roof at Grand Island's Fonner Park, will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Gov. J. James Exon has issued a proclamation calling attention to the event because of the significance of the development of the Hereford breed of cattle and the part it has played in Nebraska's economic growth.

The shows and sales are sponsored by the Nebraska Hereford Association, The American Hereford Association; the Nebraska Junior Hereford Association and the Grand Island Chamber of Commerce.

Nebraska Association Secretary Manager Bernard Phifer of Mason City said the offerings will include 800 commercial heifers in lots of 20; 53 bulls and nine heifers in the purebred sale; and 70 head of club calves.

Another Segment Of Interstate 80 Opens Thursday

Another segment of Interstate highway in far western Nebraska will be opened to travel at noon Thursday, Director Thomas Doyle of the State Department of Roads reported Wednesday.

Opened will be the westbound lanes of 10.34 miles of Interstate 80 west of Kimball.

The addition brings the total of completed interstate highway in Nebraska to 395 6 miles, or 89%.

Construction on the newly completed segment began in April of last year. Main contractors were Missouri Valley Construction Co., W. L. Schmidt Co., K & H Co., Inc., and Capitol Bridge Co.

District engineer Jim Jensen of Bridgeport said a total of 28 6 miles of interstate highway within his District 5 have been completed this season.

Dodge County Deputy Sheriff Faces Charge

Fremont (AP) — Charges of malfeasance were filed in Dodge County Court Wednesday against Deputy Sheriff James Blivens in connection with the purchase of a car at a sheriff's sale.

The offense is a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum fine of $200, but Dodge County Attorney Gordon Gobel said if the court finds Blivens guilty, it could remove him from office.

Gobel said the charge stems from the alleged purchase of a car by Blivens through a second party.

The affair received public attention when Deputy Sheriff James Schiely was fired by Sheriff Homer Brainard and Schiely alleged he had been dismissed when he pointed out the circumstances surrounding purchase of the car.

The sheriff said Schiely was dismissed because of absenteeism, over-all performance and other incidents.

Gobel said he woud await the outcome of the action against Blivens before making a determination on other possible charges.

Retirement Tax Break Applauded

Washington (AP) — A Nixon Administration plan enabling Americans to set aside part of their earnings before taxes as savings for their retirement was applauded Wednesday vy Sen. Carl Curtis.

"This will enable clerks, stenographers, farmers, individual citizens from all walks of life to save part of their income before taxes to take care of themselves in old age," Curtis, a member of Finance Committee declared.

About half of the American people are covered by some form of company pension plan which allows the company to pay before-taxes income into the pension fund. Interest earnings on the fund itself also are tax free, he noted.

But, a private individual has to set aside his savings after he has paid his taxes on that money, and the interest or dividends are taxed again, Curtis said.

"This proposed new program would give these people a break," he said.

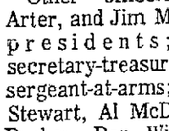

Individuals not covered by a company plan or those whose private pension plans are inadequate would be permitted, within certain limits, to choose their own plan of saving for retirement and the money they put into it would not be taxed.

"Neither would the earnings on the savings be taxed if this plan is adopted," the Nebraska Republican explained.

He said he has strived for years for the adoption of a similar plan. The administration sent its proposal to Congress Wednesday.

Loup Won't Pass Power Rate Hike On To Customers

Columbus (AP) — Directors of the Loup Public Power District said Wednesday retail rates to electric users in their four-county area will not be affected at this time by recent wholesale power rate increases to them.

Loup, which serves Nance, Boone, Platte and Colfax counties, purchases all its power from the Nebraska Public Power District, (NPPD) and in turn sells its output from two hydro plants to NPPD.

NPPD the principal, wholesaling agency outside the eastern Nebraska area served by the Omaha Public Power District, recently announced wholesale power rate increases. Loup Directors said their increase will be about 17% or $250,000.

Loup retail rates were reduced May 1, 1971, and the directors said at that time they anticipated an increase but not as large an increase as the one they received.

They say they will review rates to wholesale customers including those at Duncan, Leigh, Clarkson, Howells and Schuyler.

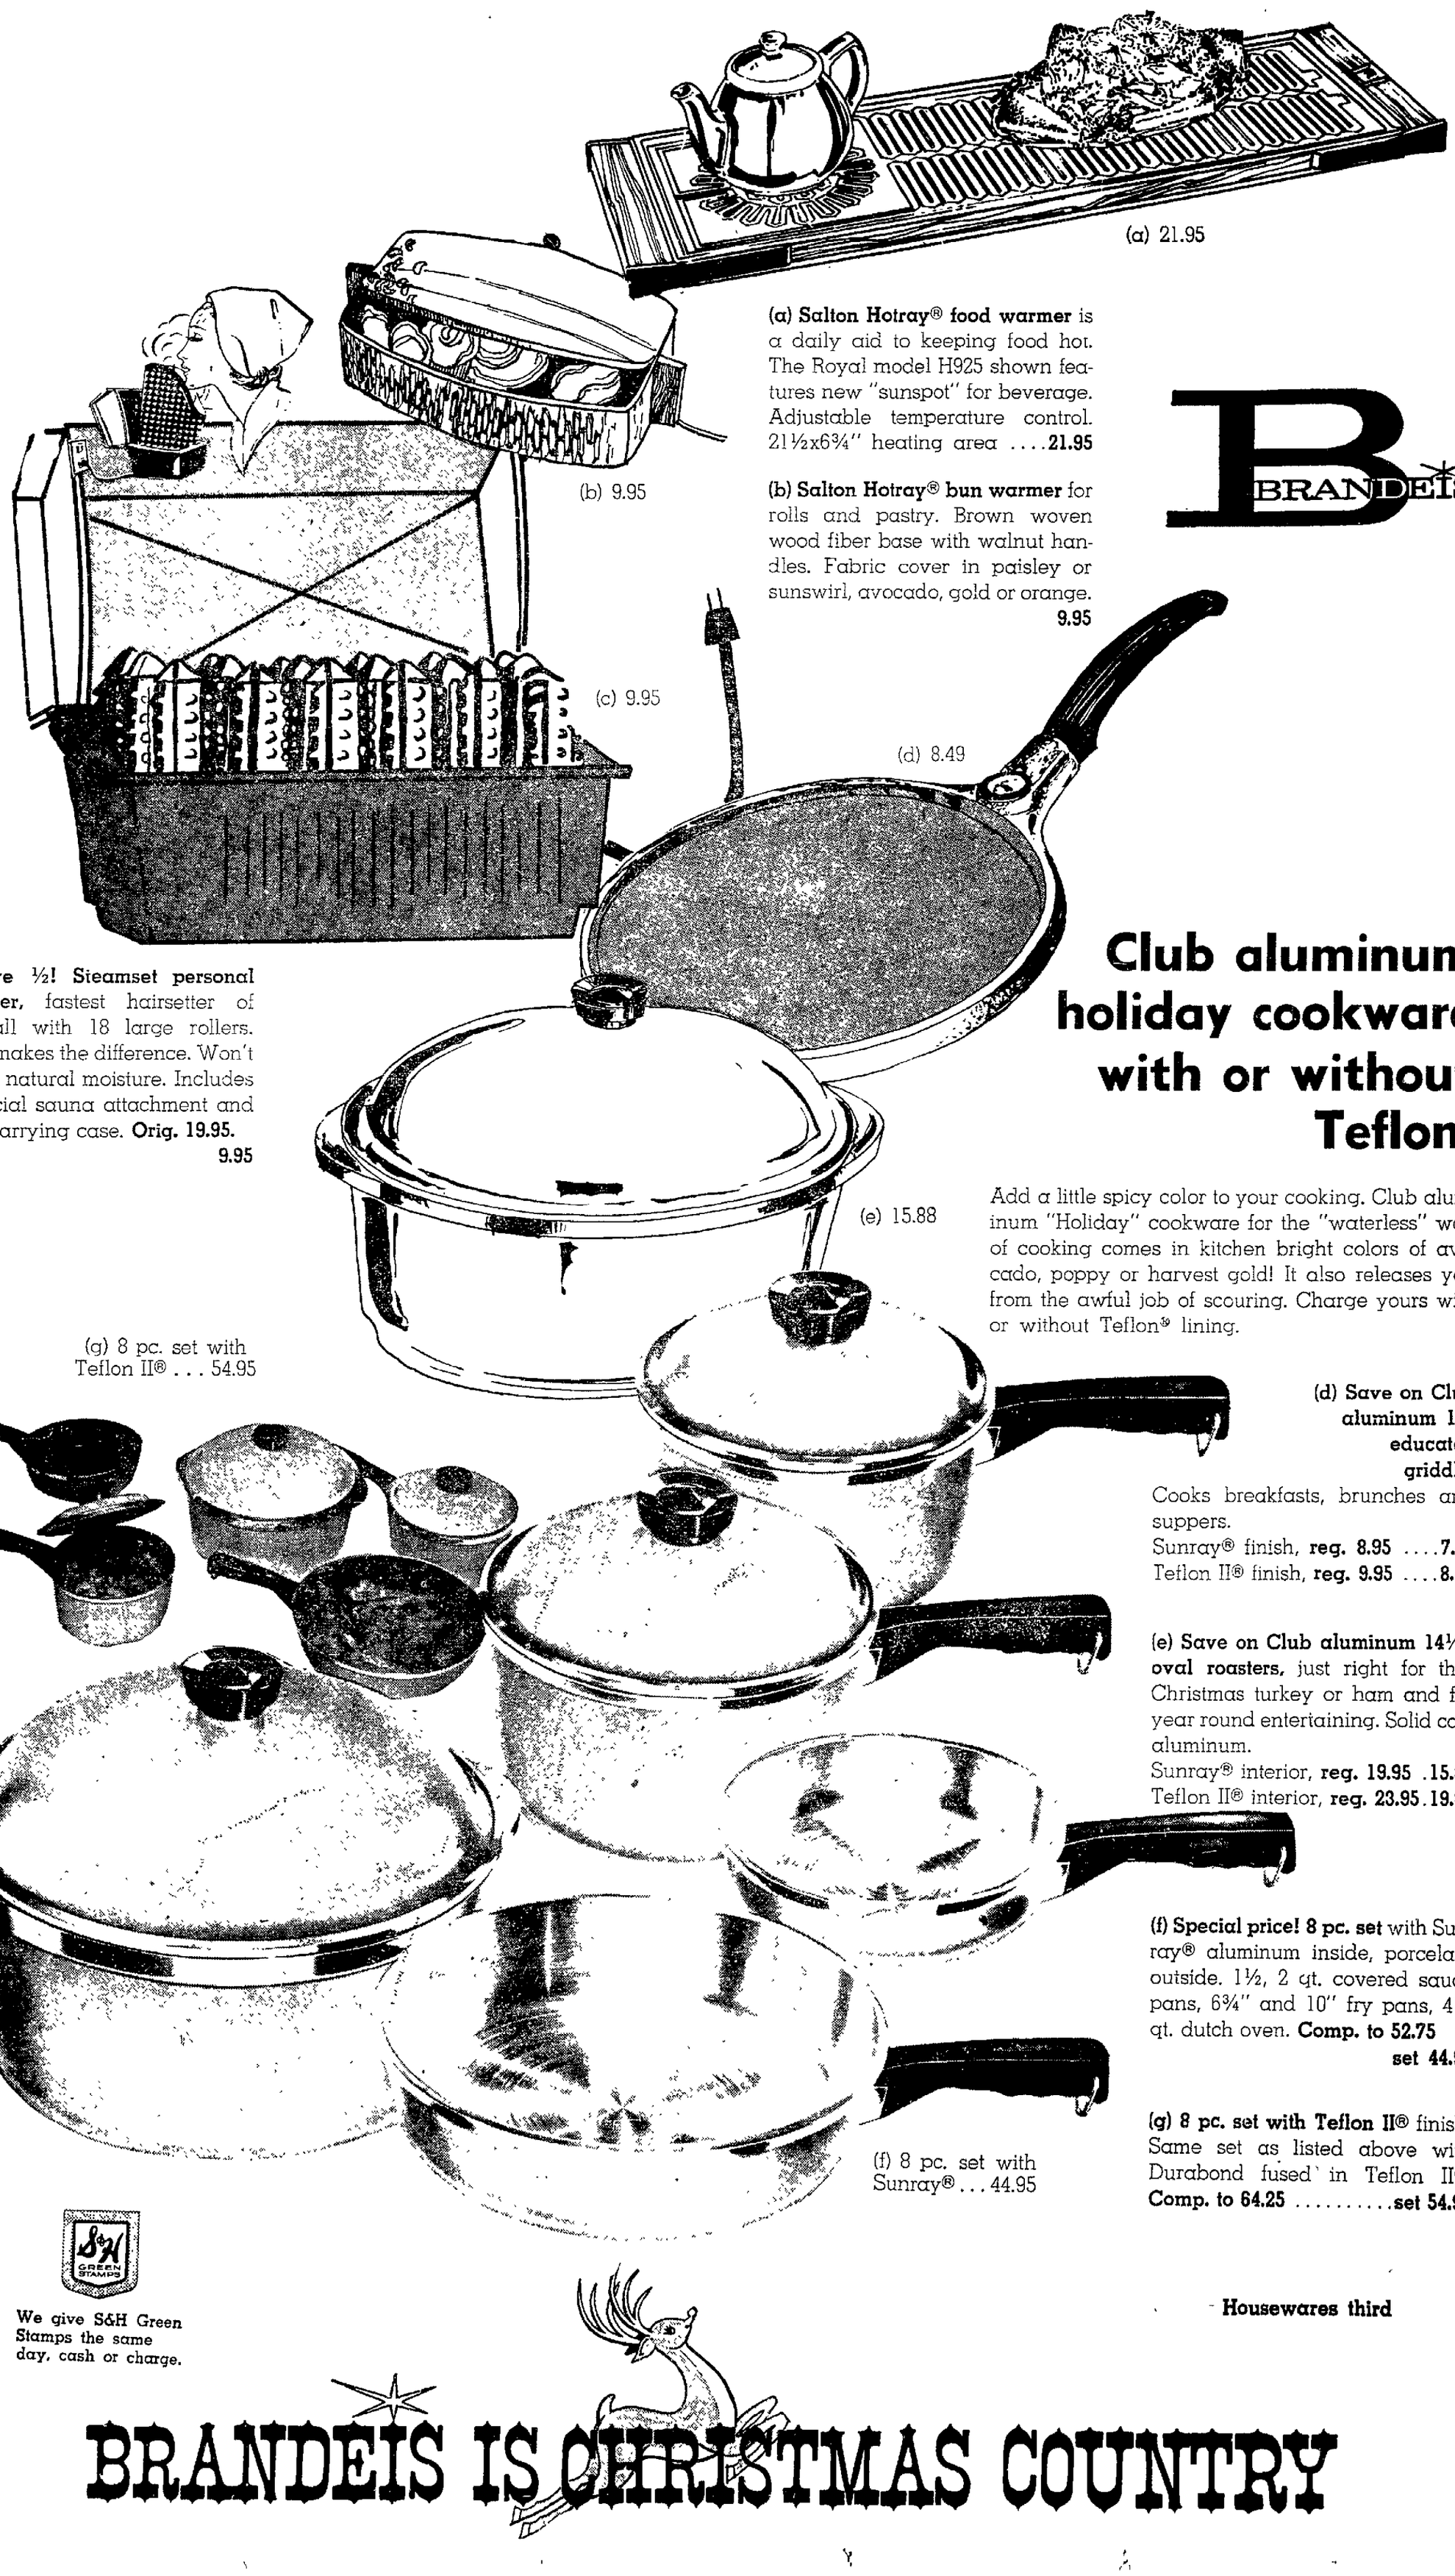

This last year Loup hydro plants provided 140 million kilowatt hours of electric energy to the NPPD system.

Law Enforcement Projects To Cost State More

By United Press International

A spokesman said Wednesday beginning the middle of next year state government will be picking up the tab for a portion of federally funded local law enforcement projects.

State Crime Commission Director Duane Nelson said the pending contributions resulted from changes made by Congress in the use of money channeled to the states through the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

In the past, the federal government has provided 75% of the project cost with the local government unit providing the remainder.

But he said beginning in mid-1972 the state will have to pick up one-fourth of the local governmental subdivision's share of the project cost.

In response to the new state matching requirement, Nelson said, a request for $200,000 has been filed for consideration by the 1972 Legislature.

Nelson said it is anticipated Nebraska would next year be allocated upwards of $4 million by the federal government for law enforcement use. This year's share totaled $3.3 million, compared with $2.8 million the previous year.

Studnicka Heads Committee For Edmund Muskie

Jim Studnicka has been named chairman of Lancaster County Citizens for Muskie.

Other officers: June Kromberg, co-chairman; Helen Lassek, treasurer; Sandy Hart, press secretary.

The steering committee includes Roy Baldwin, Chuck Leider, Nancy Sipp, Richard Scott, Dan Schlitt, Arnold Otto and Richard Benzel.

The committee will campaign for Democratic presidential aspirant Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine.

Telephone Rate Increase Begins

Kimball (AP) — Customers of United Telephone Co. of the West will begin paying from 55 cents to $4.50 per month more for service in the firm's western Panhandle exchanges this month, Gen. E. Savage, general manager, said.

Savage said the increases, approved by the Nebraska Railway Commission effective Dec. 15, amount to $1 per month for residence phones, $4.50 per month for business phones, 55 cents per month for rural subscribers on four-party lines and $1 per month for rural subscribers on one-party zone rates.

The new rates will bring in about $134,000 additional per year, Savage said.

Memorial Park Curfew Extended By City Council

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha City Council has yielded to winter sports enthusiasts and voted to change the curfew at Memorial Park.

The curfew will be extended from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. between Nov. 15 and March 15 of each year.

The 8 p.m. curfew will remain in effect between March 15 and Nov. 15.

The curfew was imposed last summer after the council received complaints from citizens who said they couldn't visit the memorial because of misbehavior in the park.

Imposition of the curfew was followed by clashes in and near the park between police and young persons.

Premier Castro Burned In Effigy

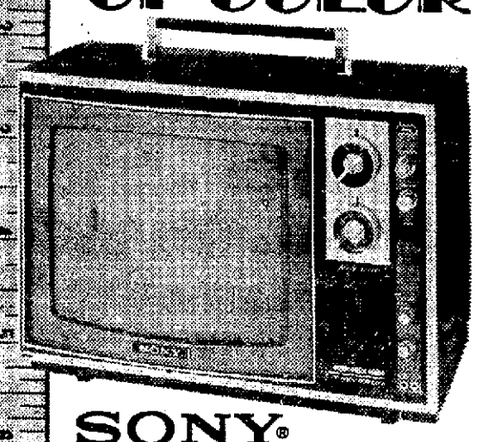

Guatemala City (UPI) — Guatemalans burned Cuban Premier Fidel Castro in effigy Wednesday on the annual occasion of "Burning of the Devil" Day when garbage is usually piled up in front of homes and put to the torch.

This year, instead of garbage an effigy of Castro was erected and burned in front of headquarters of the ruling National Liberation Movement (MLN) Party, to shouts of "Death to Castro" and "Death to Communism."

Pancake Feed Adds $1,800 to Fund For Love Library

A pancake feed sponsored by two students groups at the University of Nebraska Lincoln — Farmhouse and Kappa Alpha Theta — has resulted in an $1,800 contribution to Love Library.

This latest contribution brings to $4,500 the amount of money contributed by students, alumni and other interested persons in an effort to "Make Love (Library) Number One"

The Pancake feed represented a cooperative effort by students and busmessmen. Food for the event was donated by business firms. Members of the Lincoln Downtown Kiwanis Club donated the necessary equipment Members of the two student organizations conducted the pancake feed in the Nebraska Union last month

Members of the Cornhusker football squad will hold a special autographing party at 4 p.m Monday to support Love Library. At that time interested persons may bring a football to the Coliseum to be autographed by the football squad.

Anti-Bureaucracy Editorial Is Attacked By Richardson

Washington (AP) — A top Nixon administration official has attacked a widely printed editorial by newspaper publisher Eugene C. Pulliam criticizing the federal bureaucracy.

Elliot L. Richardson, secretary of health, education and welfare, said Wednesday that the editorial "echoes faithfully, if rather more sensationally, the increasingly irrational drumbeat of mindless criticism directed against all things bureaucratic or governmental."

Pulliam's editorial appeared on the front pages of his seven newspapers in Indiana and Arizona on Oct. 24 and later as paid advertisements in other newspapers, including the Washington Post and Evening Star.

Threat To Freedom

It called the federal bureaucracy the strongest political force in the nation and the most serous threat to freedom.

"The editorial might normally have been the cause for amusement among most civil servants, Richardson said in remarks prepared for the Rockefeller Public Service Awards luncheon.

"But I doubt that few career public servants who read it found it funny," he said "Inaccurate, obviously: terribly unfair, probably: and a little more than alarming, almost certainly — but funny, no."

Richardson said such criticisms threaten to escalate the so-called credibility gap "into a gaping credibility chasm, a void which threatens to separate the people and their government at all levels and on all issues.'

"At times," he said, "they appear based on a certainty that government is, by its very nature, ineffective at best and dishonest at worst."

'Close The Gap'

"We all must do everything we can to close the gap between governmental promise and performance,' Richardson said 'We should, in truth, come clean with the American public. We should make clear that there is a limit to what government can do: that tax dollars do not stretch indefinitely and that the setting of national priorities is a process which, by its very nature, means that if government moves strongly ahead in one area, it will probably not be able to move as strongly in another.'

Richardson said also that it should be made clear civil srevants are only carrying out policies created or condoned by the executive and legislative branches.

In Indianapolis, Pulliam issued this statement in response to Richardson's speech:

"It was a typical response of a Washington bureaucrat

"Whenever a bureaucrat is criticized, he immediately cries foul, regardless of the charges, circumstances, or incidents involved."

High Winds Cause Fires In L.A. Area

Los Angeles (AP) — Powerful winds, gusting to 62 miles an hour, swept through northeast Los Angeles and the San Gabriel Valley on Wednesday, knocking down electric lines that at times sparked new fires almost as fast as firefighters could put them out.

Fire officials said Los Angeles city firemen answered 61 alarms during a single 12-hour period About 40 of those were actual fires, a spokesman said; the rest were calls about downed and sparking lines and calls duplicating earlier reports. The spokesman said the figure of 61 reports was "extremely high" for a 12-hour period.

A few fires were reported in the San Gabriel Valley directly to the east of the hard-hit portion of the city Wind damage was heavy.

Most of the fires were minor grass blazes, but three homes in the $50,000-$80,000 range were badly burned in a brushy canyon in northeast Los Angeles and roofs on three other homes and an upholstery shop were burned. No injuries were reported.

Feed Grain Sales Said Not Bonus

Washington (AP) — A Nixon administration spokesman rejected Wednesday an accusation that the sale of $180 million of feed trains to Russia amounted to a taxpayer-subsidized "international food-stamp" bonus for Soviet farmers.

"I contend we are not subsidizing the Russian livestock business," Assistant Agriculture Secretary Clarence D. Palmby told two House subcommittees.

Palmby said the sale reduced corn surpluses, trimmed storage costs for barley and oats, and opened new agricultural export markets.

But Rep. John Rarick, D-La., said U.S. taxpayers were being asked to fork up what amounted to "international food stamps" for Soviet farmers.

"Can our U.S. livestock dealers buy oats or barley from the Commodity Credit Corp. (the government storehouse) at prices we are goint to release these grains to the Russians?" Rarick asked.

Palmby said they couldn't.

The 24.1 million bushels of oats are being sold by the CCC to Cargill Inc. and Continental Grain Co. for shipment to Russia at prices ranging from 40 to 47 cents a bushel. Recent market prices ranged from 65 cents at Minneapolis to 77 cents at Kansas City.

The 39 million bushels of barley are being released at prices ranging from 83-91 cents a bushel. It has sold at Minneapolis for $1.20 a bushel.

Rarick said the United States is financing the prosperity of the Russian cattle industry at the expense of its own industry.

Palmby, however, stressed the exchange could not have been possible unless barley and oats were included at prices approximating the world — rather than the U.S. — market level.

"I guess it depends on your frame of mind," Palmby told Rarick. "I guess the Russians could be said to be saving us at least $9 million in CCC storage costs."

U.S. barley sells for prices higher than the world market price which is set mostly within the Common Market. U.S. corn, in contrast, is highly competitive and the Chicago commodity market sets the pace for the world.

Palmby disclosed also that only half of the 80 million bushels of corn included in the exchange may come from America.

Dining with Wine

Altho the quantity of wine produced in Germany is rather small compared to that of France or Italy, the quality and dependability of the German wines has made them among the most popular and most highly regarded in the world. There are many grades of German wines and they vary from the fragrant and flowery Moselles to the very sweet, rare and incomparable Trockenbeerenauslese; (which, by the way, can be either a Rhine or Moselle). Most of the German wines are made from the Riesling grape — considered the greatest wine grape ever developed.

German wines are generally divided into two classifications — Rhine or Moselle, named after the districts thru which flow the rivers of the same name. Shoppers will find Rhine wines in brown bottles and the Moselle wines in green bottles. The only deviation from this German bottling practice is in the case of the Franconian wines — sometimes called Steinwein, made from grapes grown in the province of Franconia. These wines are bottled in a "boxbeutel" or flagon, and are the only German wines which carry the name of the grapes from which the wines were made.

The most popular German wine — outside of Germany — and the German wine most frequently requested by Americans is the one called: "Liebfraumilch", which means: "Milk of the blessed Virgin". Liebfraumilch is the name which may be applied to any Rhine wine which does not come from a specific vineyard. Its counterpart from the Moselle district is called: "Moselblumchen", or "little flower of the Moselle." Since these wines are usually sold as the lowest priced German wines, their names alone will not guarantee the buyer of the highest quality. For this assurance one must look for the name of a reliable German bottler or exporter.

It is generally conceded that the wine which we know as "Liebfraumilch" was first introduced to the world by the Valckenburg family. These famous vintners first established their vineyard and winery in 1786 and are today one of the outstanding producers and shippers in the world. Among their many properties is the world famous Liebfrauenstift — a priceless 26 acre vineyard located in the heart of Worms, West Germany. The production of wines from the Valckenburg Estates is known and in demand thruout the civilized world. Their most popular wine is the one called: Liebfraumilch Madonna and is probably the best buy in an inexpensive German Rhine wine available today. The Valckenburg family also has extensive holdings in the Moselle and their Bernkastler Falkenkrone is another example of the fine and inexpensive wine a reliable producer will offer.

Since about 95% of the German wine made today is white wine, it may be served with all foods — the Rhine wines with meat and heavier foods; and the Moselle with fish, poultry and other light food. They are particularly beneficial to those watching their weight, since German wines are very low in caloric content. Women especially, enjoy German wines. Many of them find "Rhine wine with seltzer" a most delightful drink — at any time of the day.

EXCITING BUFFET SUPPER MENU

The holiday season doesn't really begin or end with Christmas. The holiday atmosphere already is with us, and it will linger until the clock chimes the hour of midnight on Friday night, Dec. 31.

This morning we have all the makings for a buffet supper—for Christmas Eve — anytime between now and then or, for that matter, anytime afterward.

For this special party with its very special menu we have suggestions—and here they are:

Plan a menu that is truly exciting. For example, have crab-stuffed avocados, chicken champagne, hot cooked rice, green salad with lemon dressing, and for dessert champagne and flaming peaches. It tastes good even before you start.

Chicken champagne is a creamed dish made with large chicken pieces, subtly flavored with champagne, and covered with a creamy sauce. The sauce is a blend of champagne, sour cream and egg yolks. Tiny veal meatballs are the delicious surprise in this chicken dish. After the chicken has been cooked, then simmered in champagne, it is placed in a chafing dish—in the blazer pan over a bain Marie, which holds about one or two inches of water for a double boiler effect.

Here, the creamy sauce is prepared with the chicken, and is kept simmering over the low heat of a Sterno flame. Sterno canned heat is completely ordorless and smokeless, and provides just the right degree of heat. Chafing dish liquid fuel can be used in holders designed for liquid fuel.

A dessert of Flaming Peaches provides a dramatic way to crown the meal. A superb dish, it's made with canned peaches cooked in a chafing dish with a mixture of corn syrup and lemon rind. Bourbon is sprinkled over the peaches, then ignited, producing a flaming spectacular. When the flame burns out, the Flaming Peaches are served with vanilla ice cream and topped with pecans. It's an exciting dessert to prepare, yet it takes only about 10 minutes.

CHICKEN CHAMPAGNE

6 large whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, boned and halved
½ cup flour
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup salad oil
½ cup finely chopped onion
3 cups dry champagne or chicken broth
1 tablespoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
1 pint (2 cups) sour cream
4 egg yolks, beaten
Veal meatballs
½ cup finely chopped parsley
Hot cooked rice

Dust chicken with flour by placing flour in paper bag, adding chicken, a few pieces at a time, and shaking until coated. In large skillet heat butter and oil; add onions and chicken, skin side down first; cook until both are golden brown, turning chicken once. Add champagne, salt and pepper; cover and simmer 15 minutes or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken to large blazer over bain Marie over low Sterno flame; keep warm. Stir sour cream into champagne mixture. Remove some of sour cream mixture and stir into the beaten egg yolks; stir into remaining sour cream mixture in skillet and stir over low heat until thickened slightly, being careful not to let it boil. Add veal meatballs. Spoon mixture over chicken in chafing dish; cover and keep warm over low Sterno flame until ready to serve. Keep cooked rice warm in another chafing dish (over bain Marie) over low Sterno flame. Sprinkle chicken with parsley just before serving. Serve chicken over the hot rice.

YIELD: 12 servings.

VEAL MEATBALLS

1 pound ground veal
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
½ cup coarsely shredded pared apple

In medium bowl mix together the veal, parsley, salt, eggs and apple. Shape mixture into about 48 ¾-inch meatballs. Place meatballs in two greased shallow 13 x 9 x 1-inch baking pans. Bake in 350 degree oven for 20 minutes. Remove from pans and cool on paper towels.

FLAMING PEACHES

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup dark corn syrup
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
2 cans (1 pound, 14 ounce each) cling peach halves, drained
⅔ cup bourbon
1 quart vanilla ice cream
1 cup finely chopped pecans

Melt butter in blazer pan over direct Sterno flame; stir in corn syrup and lemon rind. Add peaches; heat, basting frequently. Sprinkle peaches with bourbon; heat and ignite by holding a match to liquid in blazer pan. Spoon flaming liquid over peaches until flame burns out. Serve immediately with vanilla ice cream and top with chopped pecans.

YIELD: 12 servings.

Taste Teasers

Swiss Snacks: Split and toast three English muffins and spread with a 4½ ounce can deviled ham. Top each with a thin slice of onion and slice of Swiss cheese. Broil until cheese melts — three to five minutes. Makes six snacks.

Corned Beef Spreader: Mix a three ounce package of softened cream cheese with a 4½ ounce can of corned beef spread, two tablespoons sour cream, one tablespoon chopped parsley and one-half teaspoon horseradish. Chill at least one hour. Serve with crackers. Makes one and one-fourth cups spread.

You Won't Forget This One

It always pays to have something new and different up your sleeve—Of course your recipe file might be a better place to put this utterly delectable dessert recipe. It is so simple to do, and so pleasing to the taste. And please do try it over ice cream. It's delicious.

Here is what you do

JAMAICAN BANANAS

1-3 cup sugar
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
1½ cups orange juice
⅓ cup dark rum
2 teaspoons Tia Maria or 1 teaspoon instant coffee
4 medium bananas, peeled
4 to 6 Servings

Combine sugar and cornstarch in saucepan. Add orange juice; mix well. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is thick and clear. Add rum and Tia Maria. Halve bananas crosswise, then lengthwise; place in dish or fry pan. Add orange juice sauce. Cook 3 to 4 minutes. Serve over ice cream.

Wednesday Bride

The wedding of Miss Ila Dorene Piening, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Piening, and Dale Charles Matthes, son of Mrs. Donna Matthes of Malcolm, took place at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Malcolm on Wednesday evening, Dec. 8. The Rev. Gary Weier solemnized the 7 o'clock ceremony.

The four attendants included matron of honor Mrs. Raymond Robotham of Pleasant Dale; Miss Deborah Burd, the maid of honor; Mrs. Ronald Piening, bridesmatron, and bridesmaid Miss Lois Piening of Pleasant Dale.

Dean Matthes of Malcolm served his brother as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were Stuart Piening, Dean Hass and Melvin Lindner, both of Malcolm; Gary Schwab of Emerald; Gary Hamlin; and Lyle Piening and Raymond Robotham, both of Pleasant Dale.

The bride appeared in a gown of Italian satin brocade accented with seed pearls. The Empire bodice, fashioned with a wedding band collar and leg of mutton sleeves, and a sheer, lace-framed bibbed yoke, was fitted above the A-line skirt, ruffle-edged at the hem, which was completed with a chapel-length train. A Camelot cap held in place her elbow-length veil and she carried a bouquet of roses, carnations, and stephanotis.

The bride, who attends the University of Nebraska where she is affiliated with Alpha Lambda Delta honorary, plans to join Mr. Matthes in Germany at a later date. Mr. Matthes is serving with the U.S. Army, and will depart for duty in Germany on Saturday, Dec. 18.

Skyline Terrace Meadow Lane Park Manor in the suburban areas

Birthdays are at the top of our list of suburban happenings this morning, and we can think of no better way to start the morning off right than to relate the details of the happy events.

Friday will be a very busy—and, we might add, very special—day in the life of Miss Lisa Lamb, daughter of Skyline Terrace residents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lamb. On that particular date, she will observe her 13th birthday, and, to celebrate the occasion, she has invited a number of her friends to her home for a slumber party.

Taking part in the fun, which will be highligted by an evening of roller skating, will be Kara Ryan, Melissa Saunders, Katy Watson, Tracey Darrow and Glenda Mattison.

A very busy and festive weekend was on the agenda recently for Skyline Terrace residents Mr. and Mrs. James Kucera and children, Kathy, Chris, Noel and Sean. And, at this point, we might also add that congratulations are very much in order for Mr. and Mrs. Kucera, who observed their 25th wedding anniversary on Sunday, Dec. 5.

Spending the weekend as guests at the Kucera home were Mrs. Kucera's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morrison of Brookings, S.D.; her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Morrison and children, Brian and Shelley of Omaha; and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker of Bellevue.

On Sunday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Kucera were the guests of honor at a family dinner which took place at the home of Mrs. Kucera's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Morrison.

Land-bound travelers also are in the news from suburbia this morning. Taking to the road last Friday for a weekend away from home were Meadow Lane residents, Mr. and Mrs. James Waller and children, Tricia, Angela and Lisa. Their destination was Des Moines, Iowa, where they were guests at the home of Mrs. Waller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Darryl Engstrom.

On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Engstrom were host and hostess at their home for a dinner and reunion which brought the members of their family together for the first time in three years. Taking part in the festive get-together were Mrs. Waller's brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr and Mrs. Craig Engstrom and children, Chris and Paul, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Engstrom and daughter, Sara, all of whom reside in Des Moines; and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Thompson and children, Mary and Michael of Carroll, Iowa.

The Waller family returned to Lincoln late Sunday evening.

Returning to birthday news we heard of yet another suburban youngster who celebrated his birthday right in style last weekend.

The birthday lad is Stephen Watts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Watts of Park Manor, whose celebrating also took the form of an over-night or more to the point — a weekend party.

Stephen, who became 12 years of age on Friday, Dec. 3, was accompanied home from school that day by four of his chums, and the pre-teenagers swiftly engaged in a snowball fight. After the winter activity, they took a dip in the swimming pool at the YMCA—but the partying did not end there since the guests all spent the night and all Saturday at the Watts home before the birthday celebration came to an end.

BOOKS—ideal Christmas gifts

BY CYNTHIA JOHNSON

British novelist Sir Arthur Conan Doyle once observed that "It is a great thing to start life with a small number of really good books which are your very own." Although we would wholeheartedly agree with Doyle's observation, we would add parenthetically that any age is the "right age" to begin, or continue, acquiring books.

For those persons on your Christmas list who enjoy adding volumes to an already established book collection; or for those who would perhaps like to begin a library of their own, we offer the following books as recommended for holiday gift-giving.

Art books make particularly attractive gifts, and this year there are a variety of such volumes from which to choose. Those who enjoyed the collection of Andrew Wyeth works published in 1968, and the Rockwell collection released last Christmas, will be delighted with a compilation of the works of the American artist Edward Hopper. With text by Lloyd Goodrich, the book, entitled "Edward Hopper" (Abrams), represents the first complete treatment of the contemporary painter.

Wyeth buffs will be delighted with "The Brandywine Heritage" (New York Graphic), which includes 18 color plates and 80 black and white illustrations reproducing the works of Haward Pyle, N. C. Wyeth, Andrew Wyeth and James Wyeth.

One of the most appealing art volumes to be published recently is Paul A. Rossi and David C. Hunt's "The Art of the Old West" (Knopf). Remington, Catlin and Russell are among the artists represented in the collection which includes paintings, drawings watercolors and litographs from the Gilcrease Institute of American Western Art in Tulsa, Okla.

For the lady of the house, who undoubtedly spends a good deal of her time in the kitchen, there are a number of new cookbooks Included among them is the "New York Times International Cookbook" (Harper & Row) by noted gourmet and syndicated columnist, Craig Claiborne.

With wine consumption increasing throughout the United States, two standard — though not new — guides, "Grossman's Guide to Wines, Spirits and Beers" (Scribner's) by Harold J. Grossman; and "Alexis Lichine's Encyclopedia of Wines and Spirits" (Knopf), will make practical and welcome gifts.

Those who enjoy concocting their own beverages at home will be interested in Leigh P. Beadle's new book, "Brew It Yourself: A Complete Guide to the Brewing of Beer, Ale, Mead and Wine" (Farrar, Straus and Giroux). Utilizing a variety of new products in his recipes, Mr. Beadles demonstrates how to make high-quality beverages with a minimum of time and financial investment.

The sportsman on your gift list will be particularly easy to buy for this Christmas due to the fact that a vast number of books on virtually every athletic subject have been published recently. Football fans will be especially interested in Allison Danzig's new book, "Oh, How They Played the Game: The Early Days of Football and the Heroes Who Made It Great" (MacMillan); and Hockey buffs will enjoy "Hockey!" (Macmillan) by Richard Reddoes, Stan Fischler and Ira Gitler. The latter volume includes a complete history of every team in the NHL, as well as portraits of individual players.

"The Upland Shooting Life" (Knopf) by George Bird Evans will make the perfect gift for the hunter, who will enjoy the author's tales of the experiences he has had while in pursuit of upland game. The book is generously illustrated with black and white photographs.

A delightfully humorous book, "Wait 'Til You Have Children of Your Own." (Doubleday) written by Erma Bombeck and illustrated by Bill Keane will make a hit with those who have chuckled over Mr. Kean's cartoon strip "The Family Circus;" and "My Favorite Intermissions: Victor Borge's Lives of the Musical Greats and Other Facts You Never Knew You Were Missing (Doubleday), will also please those who appreciate books in a humorous vein.

Recently-released biographies suggested for holiday shoppers include "Eleanor and Franklin" (Norton) by Joseph P. Lash; Wunnerful, Wunnerful" (Prentice-Hall), Lawrence Welk's autobiography; and "Jeanie" (Prentice-Hall), volume II in Ralph G. Martin's "Life of Lady Randolph Churchill."

The list of new novels from which to choose is virtually endless. Several, which will be of interest to most fiction fans, include Pulitzer Prize winner Herman Wouk's "The Winds of War" (Little, Brown), an historical novel concerning a small group of people whose lives were shaped by the international crisis that became World War II; The Day of the Jackal" (Viking), a suspense story by Frederick Forsyth; "The Condor Passes" by Shirley Ann Grau (Knopf); and Agatha Christie's latest effort, "Nemesis" (Dodd, Mead).

The hours involved in kidney dialysis treatment are sometimes long and tedious.

Patients' hours of treatment may pass a bit more quickly now, thanks to the generosity of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

The Lincoln City Council's philanthropic project for this club year was the purchase of a colored television for Lincoln's Kidney Dialysis Center located at the St. Elizabeth Community Health Center.

DO IT YOURSELF

Editor's Note: The following directions have been provided by Mrs. Joseph Carnes, instructor of creative craft classes for the Consumer and Homemaking Education Division of the Lincoln Technical College.

Your home will come aglow this Christmas with candle light shining through frosted, colored containers which can be made from old glasses or discarded kitchen jars.

To fashion the candle holders, cut colored tissue paper into irregular shapes, using a variety of colors. Dilute white glue (two parts glue, one part water), and brush onto a portion of the container you have chosen. Lay the pieces of paper on the glued surface, slightly overlapping the edges of each piece. Continue the process until the entire container has been covered. Let stand until glue is dry to the touch.

Finish by applying a portion of the diluted glue over the paper, and, while glue is wet, sprinkle generously with diamond dust glitter. When the surface is dry, place a small candle inside the completed container.

Snow Hinders Hunting

How can you win? First the weather is so perfect that pheasants are flushing well out of shotgun range, then the weather takes a turn for the worse and the pheasants stick . . . without leaving any scent for a hard-working bird dog.

"For the average Joe who doesn't use dogs the snow is really great. The birds stay close to the ground until you practically step on them," Joe Miller of Lincoln says. "But for people like me who use dogs, it's murder.

"The birds don't move around so they don't leave much scent. And if the air is a little damp, their scent will cling in a small area around them instead of spreading. The dogs don't have much of a chance to pick up any scent unless they're particularly on top of 'em."

Joe has a pair of Brittany's that really know their business. Just watching them work will make your mouth drool and you'll ask just how much he paid for them.

"Not a cent," he grins. "I raised them from pups and brought them with me when I moved here from Kentucky three years ago. I broke them to quail, but they've seemed to pick up pheasant hunting all by themselves."

Six-years-old Cindy, is two years older than Rudy, but bows to Rudy when it comes to working singles.

"She'll backstand Rudy on the singles, but she gets madder'n hell if Rudy tries to butt in when she's working a covey of quail. On pheasants, they're about equal, though. One will work from each side of the pheasant if it's possible."

Joe doesn't bother trying to show his dogs and doesn't believe in field trials.

"They just ruin a good hunting dog that way," he contends. "The dog gets used to working in a certain set of circumstances that never vary in terrain or routines. Everything is the same and that destroys the initiative of a dog.

"My dogs are for hunting and not to become pampered pets taught certain tricks to perform for judges. They don't win any blue ribbons, but we sure get a lot of pheasants if the conditions are ripe. And that's what I mean about the weather."

Yet, Joe can't complain about the cold rain and damp air if he's working creek beds or hedgerows for quail.

"That's a different story altogether," he grins. "Pheasant hunting in this slop is entirely different than quail hunting. There's more birds in a covey so there's more scent for the dogs to work with.

"But once you put up a covey, you'll have to wait awhile until the birds start moving around again. Pheasants move around right after they're flushed. They'll run after they land and that'll give the dogs something to work on. After you get them up the first time, that is."

No Rain Hurts

Duck hunters who have complained about the lack of action in Nebraska this year, should thank the Lord for the little hunting they have had. In Arkansas, the situation is a little bleak.

Stuttgart, Ark., the self-styled Duck Hunting Capital of the World," hasn't proven as prosperous as its title would seem to indicate. The ducks just ain't there and the reason is rain, or rather, the lack of it.

Duck hunting is the major outdoor sport in all of the lowlands of Eastern Arkansas and, as a result of the amount of ducks drawn to this area in the past, the major source of revenue for Stuttgart.

At least in Nebraska hunters get a chance at ducks once in a while. If they blow it, that's their own fault. When nature is against you, the whole world is just one big slap in the face.

Bryant Still Among Toughest Coaches To Beat

. . . 'BEAR' CONCEDES MANY THINGS HAVE CHANGED IN COLLEGE FOOTBALL

BY MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bear Bryant has mellowed.

He admits it.

But he hasn't mellowed much. That he doesn't admit. Not readily anyway.

At 58, Paul Bryant, head coach of Alabama's unbeaten football team, the second-ranked major college squad in the nation, still is regarded one of the toughest men in his business.

He earned his nickname originally by wrestling a bear for a $1 when he was a kid in Fordyce, Ark., and there were times he worked his players so hard on the football practice field that some of them said oh, that poor bear. Bryant knows about his reputation well enough not to argue about it.

"A certain amount of it is exaggerated," he claims. "We practice less than most teams and have less contact."

Bear Bryant took a pull on his cigarette after making that point."

"I do feel this way," he said, anxious to clarify his philosophy. "There are certain lessons to be learned on the football field in practice and they require contact, hard work, second and third effort and that sort of thing. I feel like if you don't teach 'em, then you really let the player down, and when people used to criticize us that we worked the players too hard, that was the greatest selling point we had."

Bryant concedes many things have changed in college football. Not necessarily for the better either although he's careful about the way he phrases that.

"We use the expression 'they're not as hungry as they used to be,'" he says talking about today's ballplayers. "This is not being critical of the youngsters —I think kids are better now and more knowledgeable —but I don't think some things, like football, mean as much to them as they used to."

Why not?

"Today everybody has an automobile, a good-looking girl and money in his pocket," Bryant replied. "It didn't always used to be that way. You used to have to make the team before you got the good-looking girl."

Bryant may be 58 but he still knows the score. He knows today's ballplayer isn't as gullible as some of those a decade ago.

"Ten years ago they'd believe anything I told 'em," he said, smiling, "It's different now. But I find the great ones still have one thing in common —a desire to excel."

Bryant sees himself more as "an overseer" now than an actual coach.

"For years and years and years I ate lunch with my quarterbacks every day. I did that with Namath, but now about the only time I get to talk with my quarterback, really meet with him and go over things, I mean, is on the day of the game."

Maybe it's easier for him now, but Bryant liked the old way better.

"I mean when I was working with the line, for instance," he says, "when I was younger and working fundamentals, you could really get right in there with that sweat and stink and hoot and holler. That was real fun. I don't get to do that anymore."

Despite all the changes, some things remain the same for Bryant, who has no desire ever to coach any other place but Alabama.

"There still is that time," he says, "when you go out on that practice field and you're tired and hot and you think you're gonna die. You gotta suck your guts up, reach down and get something and if you do that, then you know how. You'll not only do that in practice and in a game but also some day when you're out trying to make a living and everything is going wrong, you'll do the same thing. To me, that's what this game is all about."

Bear Bryant has mellowed. But not that much.

Spartans Break Open Tight Intra-City Game

. . . SECOND HALF SCORING SURGE BEATS LHS

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Lincoln East, with an explosive second-half surge, blew open a tight crosstown clash with Lincoln High and capture a lopsided 85-56 basketball victory Wednesday night.

A sparse midweek crowd at Pershing Auditorium saw the defending state champion Spartans outscore the Links 26-11 in the third quarter to all but settle the issue.

Though Lincoln High never led during the contest, coach Aldy Johnson's crew had the count knotted at 17-all early in the second stanza and pulled within one at 29-28 just before halftime.

But Gene Smith hit a fielder and Reg Gast completed the second of a trio of three-point plays he had during the game to push coach Paul Forch's East club in front by six, at 34-28.

The Links' Steve Harris then connected and East held a slim four-point edge, 34-30, at the intermission.

But East opened the second half with another three-pointer by Gast, Rick Samuelson had a fielder, Scott Copple chipped in two buckets, Gene Smith had one and Gast added another.

During that spurt the Links were limited to a basket by Harris and two free throws by Bob Knollenberg and the margin was suddenly 12 at 46-34

Copple and Samuelson continued to chew up a Lincoln High zone defense from along the baseline, getting the next ten points for East and by the start of the final frame the Spartans had a whopping 19-point bulge at 60-41.

The biggest spread came just before the end when East moved the margin to 31 points at 85-54.

East had four players reach double figures, topped by Gast's 21. Smith followed with 17, while Copple added 16 and Samuelson 13 points.

The Links were paced by a 14-point performance from Bruce Schomaker, while Knollenberg had 11 in the losing cause.

Adding to Lincoln High's woes was a 50 percent average at the free throw line (10-20), while East pumped in 19 of 24 from the charity stripe.

East, after an opening game loss to Southeast, now stands 1-1 on the young season, while Lincoln High, which opened with a big win at Hastings, now is 1-2 after dropping its second game of the campaign to Omaha Westside.

Southeast and Northeast, both unbeaten after a single outing, face off in another intra-city matchup tonight at Pershing.

Norfolk (AP) — Dick Pelster of Petersburg won the rubber match Wednesday night as he scored a technical knockout over Chuck Hernandez in the feature of a Pro-Am fight card here.

Beard's 23 Points Pace Kansas State

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Sophomore guard Danny Beard led Kansas State to an 87-60 non-conference basketball victory over Texas Monday night.

Beard's nine-for-11 effort from the field sparked the Wildcats to a 48-27 halftime edge. The game was never in doubt after that.

The 6-3 Beard, who led all scorers with 23 points, also had a brilliant night defensively. He was credited with 10 steals and held Scotter Lenox, the Longhorns' leading scorer, to two points. Lenox was averaging 21.3 points per game.

Kansas State, now 2-2, bulged its lead to as much as 31 points midway through the second half before coach Jack Hartman started running in his reserves. Beard sat out the last eight minutes.

The Wildcats had four men score in double figures. Next to Beard were reserve center Steve Mitchell with 19 points, Ernie Kusnyer with 14 and David Hall with 13.

Mitchell also pulled down 13 rebounds as Kansas State forged a 47-36 edge in that department.

B. G. Brosterhous, a 6-10 junior, pumped in 16 points to lead Texas, also 2-2.

Wichita State forward Ron Harris led all scoring with 24 points. Guard Vince Smith hit for 16 points and center Terry Benton added 13 plus pulling down 13 rebounds.

The Buffaloes only double figure scorer was 6-7 center Jim Creighton who had 18 points and led the game in rebounds with 14.

Stallworth Paces KU Over Irish

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Bud Stallworth's career high of 34 points sparked Kansas past Notre Dame's sophomore basketeers, 88-72, here Wednesday night.

The game evened the record for both clubs at 2-2 for the season.

Kansas hit the first six shots it took and appeared to be en route to a rout before the young Fighting Irish rallied for a 34-33 lead with 2:20 left in the first half.

It was then that Stallworth took command and unreeled seven straight points which staked Kansas to a 42-35 halftime lead.

It was Stallworth leading the way again as the Jayhawks steadily widened the gap in the second half and won going away. Notre Dame, in its first season under Digger Phelps, started five sophomores and the Irish scoring was led by Bob Valibus with 14 points.

Kansas had four other men in double figures headed by Wilson Barrow's 15.

NU's 'Operation Comeback' Faces Running SMU Quintet

. . . HUSKERS HOST MUSTANGS SATURDAY NIGHT

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

When initiating Operation Comeback, SMU is not a good opponent

"SMU is strictly a running team whose greatest strength is their tremendous depth," said NU basketball coach Joe Cipriano. "Their frontline averages more than 6-7 and that's another problem."

Cipriano's Huskers, off to a 1-3 start, meet SMU at 7:35 p.m. Saturday at the NU Coliseum in an effort to shake their scoring drought and their worst start since Cipriano's first NU season in 1963.

Paced by 6-8 senior David Miller, the Mustangs own a 2-1 record with wins over Austin College (110-69) and Vanderbilt (89-79). Vanderbilt had beaten SMU in their last nine meetings.

SMU fell 102-87 to Oklahoma City Wednesday night.

SMU's scoring strength may rest with guards Bobby Rollings and Larry Delzell who combined for a 33-point average during last season's 16-10 campaign.

Despite losing Gene Phillips, the most prolific scorer in Southwest Conference history, Cipriano feels the Mustangs are an improved club.

"From what we've heard, they're much improved over last year," he says "Sure they went to Phillips a lot, but they're a better board team and more aggressive."

Sophomores Zack Thiel (6-0), Rick Billick (6-2) and John Tuszynaski (6-6) are also expected to see action Saturday night.

The Mustangs, who are averaging more than 90 offensive shots a game, lead the series 2-1. SMU triumphed 80-75 in Dallas last season to end a four-game Husker winning streak.

"They won't be as quick as some of the teams we've played already," Cipriano points out. "But they are as tough an opponent if not tougher than those we've played."

Although Cipriano said the Huskers haven't equaled their capabilities in the opening four games, he said the quickness of Wichita State and San Diego State have been factors.

"We knew we haven't played as well as we can after looking at the films," he says, "But we're playing teams that are a lot quicker than we've played before — I guess you could say we haven't played so many Wichita State-type teams before."

Cipriano gave his players Tuesday off after returning to Lincoln from Pittsburgh where NU dropped a 75-53 decision to Duquesne Monday night. That marked NU's fourth game in six days.

"That was our worst effort of the year," he notes, "but we've been tired from so many games and the mental and physical strain of traveling and playing."

"We're going to have to block out better — we can't keep giving these teams so many second shots," he said. "Another thing we're working on is moving the ball around more — we're just holding the basketball too much."

Another habit that has plagued NU is excessive dribbling.

"Sure, these are just little habits that have to be changed," he says, "but once we get them solved we're going to be a good team."

Ticket Supply Limited

University of Nebraska athletic ticket manager Jim Pittenger said Wednesday that if an Orange Bowl ticket seeker was not in one of the priority categories established for the sale of tickets his chances of getting a ticket were nil.

"We've had about 25,000 requests for 12,500 tickets," explained Pittenger. "And there's no chance we'll get any more tickets."

Pittenger indicated that the billing process and mailing of tickets to those who were on the priority lists was now under way, but that notices of regret to those who will not receive tickets will not be mailed for a few days.

A lottery was conducted for 2,000 student tickets with slightly over half of the 3,634 ticket-seeking students getting them.

Half Million Mark For Fonner Purses

Grand Island — Fonner Park's five furlong track in Grand Island will distribute nearly a half million dollars in purses during the 1972 season. The meeting, opening March 3 will feature six stakes and six over night handicaps.

The Fonner Mile and the Nebraska Derby, both carrying a $6,000 added value, top the list of features in the Third City. The Nebraska Derby will highlight racing on the next to the last Saturday of racing, April 22, while the Fonner Mile will be presented on April 29 to feature the final day of racing at Fonner Park for the 1972 season.

The second running of the Expectation Stakes for two year olds will be offered on April 28. The first running of the open four-furlong juvenile stake exceeded all hopes as the total value of the race reached $12,250.

Unlike most stakes of this kind, which require several payments to remain eligible, the Expectation Stakes only has one payment of $250, which is the moninating fee due on Saturday, March 18. No other fees are assessed until time of entry.

The first homebred stake to be offered will be the $1,000-added Special Stakes for three-year olds which will be presented on April 8. The $4,000-added Juvenile Stakes will be offered on Friday, April 21. The $30 nomination fee to each of the stakes is due on or before Monday, Jan. 3.

Fonner Park's training facility will be open to horsemen on December 15 provided application for stalls has been made. Horses not accepted by the stall committee to race during the meeting must vacate stalls no later than Feb. 1.

Horsemen are also reminded to include the latest past performance charts from Daily Racing Form on all horses that have started in 1972.

The condition book, covering the first 11-days of the meeting is now available along with stall application forms and can be obtained by writing Al Swihart at Fonner Park, P.O. Box 490, Grand Island, Nebraska 68801.

City Recreation Slates Table Tennis Tourney

The fourth annual city-wide table tennis invitational tournament, sponsored by the Lincoln City Recreation Department, will be held on Dec. 29 at the Easterday Recreation Center.

Competition will be split into age groups for both boys and girls, 11-13, 14-15, 16-17, and 18 and over.

Scott Records Best Rodeo Effort

Oklahoma City (AP) — Barbi Scott of North Platte, posted her best effort to date in the fifth go-round of barrel racing at the National Finals Rodeo here Wednesday night.

She needed just 17.09 seconds to complete the cloverleaf pattern but was out of the money as the first four places were clocked in 16.72 or under.

Jerome Robinson of Brandon, made the qualifying whistle for the second time in five attempts in the bull riding. He marked a 57 but not good enough to collect a paycheck.

Abby: confront him, and tell him he needs help

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20-year-old girl. I have a good secretarial job, my own car and I live at home and pay room and board.

My parents frequently go away on weekends, and my boy friend comes over, and sometimes stays until after the late show on television. Everything is on the up and up, and I never lie about what time he goes home, but now my parents say I can't have him over unless they are home.

Abby, this is ridiculous. Dad says it "looks bad" for the neighbors. Mom says in a few years I'll be married and gone, but they will have to face the neighbors and all that gossip.

I told my parents if I couldn't have my boy friend over unless they were home, I'd move out, and they said if I moved out, I could never set foot in their house again.

Abby, that's the way we left it. I would like your opinion of the situation.

"HAD IT AT 20"

DEAR HAD IT: I think you should be allowed to entertain your boy friend at home whether your parents are home or not. And for them to have laid down such a rule because of what the neighbors might think is narrow-minded and shortsighted. As well-intentioned as they are, they are literally driving you out of the house.

DEAR ABBY: About two years ago, an older male relative started taking a great deal of interest in our little girl. It never entered my mind that something could be wrong because this man is a well-known, well-liked prominent citizen.

After putting four or five little incidents together, they all added up to one thing. Child molesting! When it finally dawned on me I didn't know who I hated more. The man, or myself for having been so stupid.

Because I never actually caught him, we decided the best thing to do would be to watch him very carefully, to make sure he never was alone with our child for even a minute.

I hope he reads this. I will be happy when he dies, then I won't have to worry anymore. Please print this so other mothers will be on the lookout for sick people who are around them every day. Sign me

DAZED

DEAR DAZED: Waiting for him to "die" is no solution. (He may outlive you.) And making sure he isn't alone with your child "for even a minute" isn't the answer either. What's to stop him from molesting other children? Confront him with the facts as you know them and insist that he get professional help. He is sick, sick, sick.

Opening lead — ten of diamonds.

Let's say you're East, defending against four hearts, and partner leads a diamond. You cash the A-Q, but what would you play next?

It's not easy to find the right play — even if you see all four hands — but there is little doubt about the right move at this point if you consider the matter thoroughly.

You should play another diamond at trick three!

This may be regarded by some as a shocking play, for it has been dinned into all of us that a defender must never deliberately give declarer a ruff and discard.

But "never" is a long, long time, and any player worth his salt eventually learns that words like never and always don't mean precisely what they say, and that what is really meant by them is almost never and almost always.

Thus, in the present case, it should be obvious — from looking at dummy and considering the bidding — that there is no chance of beating the contract unless declarer is saddled with a four-card trump suit.

Acting on this assumption, you should shape your defense accordingly. If you "play safe" and return a spade, a heart or a club, declarer will force out your ace of trumps and easily score the rest of the tricks.

But, if you return a diamond, South cannot make the contract whatever he does. He can ruff in either hand and lead two rounds of trumps — both of which you would refuse to win — but he would then find himself up a tree.

You would be in control of trumps, instead of him, and whatever he played next you would either then or eventually score two trump tricks to put the contract down one.

Winkles Hired By Angels

...FORMER MINOR LEAGUER PLAYED AGAINST LINCOLN

Anaheim (UPI) — The California Angels have hired Bobby Winkles, one of the nation's most successful college baseball coaches, to work as an assistant to new manager Del Rice.

Signing of Winkles, 41, coach at Arizona State University for the past 13 years, was announced Wednesday on the heels of the selection of the 49-year-old Rice as field manager the previous day.

At least two other coaching jobs are still open with the Angels and general manager Harry Dalton is believed to have under consideration Warren Spahn, the National League pitching great, and Peanuts Lowery, a veteran in the coaching ranks.

Dalton himself is part of the Angels new look. He was hired after a long and successful career as director of player personnel for the Baltimore Orioles, replacing Dick Walsh two weeks after the end of the 1971 season.

Harold "Lefty" Phillips, Angel manager for three seasons, was also fired. The Angels, picked by many as pennant contenders, barely managed to finish fourth in the American League West.

Rice brings a lot of experience to the job as a player (17 years in the major leagues as a catcher), as a coach and manager in the minors. In 1971 his Salt Lake City team won the Pacific Coast League pennant...

Winkles was an infielder in the Chicago White Sox organization for five years before going into the coaching ranks in 1959 at Arizona State.

Winkles, an infielder with Colorado Springs in the old Western League, played before Lincoln fans several times at Sherman Field.

His Arizona State teams won three NCAA championships and four Western Athletic Conference titles.

Among current major leaguers coached by him are Reggie Jackson, Sal Bando, Rick Monday, Mary Gentry, Joe Keough, Duffy Dyer, Scott Reid, Paul Ray Powell and Larry Gura.

The Angels gave Winkles a one-year contract, the same term as Rice signed for.

Winkles did not accept the coaching job with the Angels until after he knew Rice, an old friend, was hired.

"Let's face it," he said "I had a good job at Arizona State. I was happy and comfortable. I would not have worked for just any major league manager. I've known Del for 10 or 12 years and I have always respected him as a fine coach, manager and a gentleman."

Dalton, commenting on Winkles, said, "whether he coaches one of the bases or will be on the bench with Del will be decided after we have filled the entire staff. We regard him as an outstanding instructor with particular strengths in organization, training program and discipline."

Olympic's Ticket Sales Doing Well

Munuh (UPI) — The Olympic Organizing Committee has collected 10 million marks ($3 million) already from advance ticket sales in foreign countries for the 1972 Munich games, an Olympic spokesman said Wednesday

"Of the allotted 1.2 million tickets for foreign customers, 550,000 have been sold in the first sales campaign," the Olympic official said.

Ticket sales agents from all over the world have returned the money without notable delay. The Organizing Committee in return has paid six million marks ($1.7 million) to local hotel and private apartment owners for renting rooms to foreign Olympic guests.

Tickets only could be obtained in connection with booking accommodation.

The United States has been the leading ticket buyer with 85,000 followed by Yugoslavia with 46,000 tickets. Japan and Mexico, hosts of the last two summer games, have sold 30.000 and 13,000 tickets.

Malta ranks at the bottom with only two sold tickets

"By the end of this year two million of the 3 6 million tickets available for the games at Munich, Kiel and Augsburg will have been sold, which is an Olympic record for the stage, nine months before the opening of the games," the spokesman said

The first advance ticket sales campaign ended in July, the second will be terminated this month

U.S.-Russian Indoor Dual Track Meet Set For March

...AAU ANNOUNCES RICHMOND COLISEUM PLANS

Richmond, Va. (AP) — Richmond's spanking new $24 million coliseum will be the scene next March 17 of the first-ever indoor track and field meet between the United States and the Soviet Union

Plans for the meet were announced Wednesday by the Amateur Athletic Union. The AAU said 22 events will be run, matching 50 of the top male and female athletes of the two nations.

The coliseum, which seats 10,000 persons, has a board track of 11 laps to the mile.

Ollan C. Cassell, assistant executive director of the AAU, said the U.S squad for the one-day meet will be chosen after the National Indoor meet Feb. 25 in New York

The Soviet squad will fly here from the European championships, Cassell told a special news conference held jointly with Virginia Gov. Linwood Holton.

United States and Soviet track stars have met 10 times previously in outdoor competition—the last time last summer in Berkeley, Calif.

"But only in the last few years have the Russians become interested in indoor competition," Cassell said, "and we've been discussing just such a meet as this since then."

Cassell was in Russia four weeks ago for negotiations that wound up in announcement of the March 17 meet, to be co-sponsored by the Coliseum and Richmond Newspapers, publisher of the Richmond News Leader and Times-Dispatch.

Events scheduled for both men and women contestants include the 60-yard dash, 600-yard run, 1,000-yard run, 60-yard hurdles, long jump, high jump shot put and 880-yard relay.

For men only the schedule includes a three-mile run, pole vault, 35-pound weight thrown and a three-mile walk.

Many of the Soviet contestants quite probably will be holdovers from the USSR squad that competed in the U.S.-USSR World All-Star Meet July 3-4 at Berkeley.

These include Valeriy Borzov, Soviet 100-meter and 200-meter champion; Michael Zhelobovsky, the 1,500-meter winner at Berkeley, and Rashid Sharafyetidnov, who won the 10,000 meters there.

Marinaro Grabs Title In Offensive Categories

. . . NU'S RODGERS NINTH IN SCORING

New York (AP) — Cornell's hard-running workhorse, Ed Marinaro, barely beaten out for the Heisman Trophy, managed to grab his share of honors before closing out his collegiate football career.

The final 1971 statistics of the National Collegiate Sports Services show that he was a triple champion on offense, leading in three important categories — rushing, scoring and all-purpose running.

With the popularity of the Wishbone-T and other multiple-option running attacks, the nation never produced a more prolific collection of rushers than in 1971, and Marinaro was the king.

The thick-necked Cornell halfback averaged 209 yards a game on the ground, better than 81 of the 119 major teams could manage. He averaged 5.3 yards a carry, running the ball 39.6 times a game.

His 4,715 yards rushing set a national record, beating the old mark of Oklahoma's Steve Owens by 848 yards.

The 6-foot-3, 210-pound Ivy League All-American scored 24 touchdowns and kicked four extra points for a total of 148 points and a 16.4 average. In all-purpose running including kick returns, Marinaro had 1,932 yards for the season and a 214.7 average.

The final offensive figures reflect the running power of the nation's top-ranked teams, most of whom will carry on in the post-season bowls.

Nebraska's Johnny Rodgers placed ninth in scoring and eigth in all-purpose running. Oklahoma's Greg Pruitt placed second in rushing behind Marinaro and Houston's Robert Newhouse, with teammate Jack Mildren, was among the Top Ten in scoring.

Lydell Mitchell of Penn State was second in scoring with a 15.8 average.

George Prepares Offer To Quarry

Des Moines, Iowa (AP) — Boxing promoter P. L. (Pinkie) George said Tuesday he is prepared to offer second-ranked heavyweight Jerry Quarry $25,000 to box Ron Stander of Council Bluffs here in late Februrary.

George, who sponsored a four-bout card here last week featuring Quarry, said he would fly to Los Angeles Sunday to present the offer to Quarry and his manager.

"I think I have a good chance to line up the match," George told The Associated Press.

Quarry, ranked behind champion Muhammad Ali, stopped Lou Bailey of Omaha, Neb., in a unanimous 10-round decision last Thursday night.

"This would be an ideal fight for Stander," added George, "if he would win it would make him an instant heavyweight challenger."

Stander, 27, has a professional record of 20-0-1 including 13 victories by knockouts. He scored a third-round knockout over Jessie Crown of New Jersey Oct. 27 in his last outing.

"I think the fight would draw very well in Des Moines," said George who added he would book Veterans Auditorium if the match could be arranged.

The auditorium could seat 13,500 for such a bout, George said.

A crowd of 3,200 with gate receipts $13,344 turned out for the Quarry fight Dec. 2, according to George.

"That was a very healthy sign for boxing in Iowa," he said. "There was another outstanding attraction in the state that night Iowa State's basketball opener and a lot of people thought it wouldn't be much of a fight."

George said the fact that Stander is one of the most promising heavyweights the state has ever produced also would tend to draw a large crowd for the match.

Quarry, a Bellflower, Calif., native, has a career record of 41-5-4 including 24 victories by knockouts.

The Dec. 2 bouts were the first in Iowa since professional boxing came under state control 18 months ago.

Red Chinese Hit U.S. For 'Dirty Deals'

United nations, N.Y. (AP) — Communist China blamed the United States and the Soviet Union, on Wednesday for the Middle East Crisis and accused them of "colluding with each other there."

"They are taking advantage of the temporary difficulties facing the Palestinian and other Arab peoples to make dirty political deals in their contention for important strategic points and oil resources and the division of spheres of influence," Deputy Foreign Minister Chio Kuan-hua said.

Making China's first major pronouncement on the Middle East since Peking's delegation arrived last month, Chiao singled out the United States for the brunt of his attack.

"The essence of the Middle East question is the aggression against the Palestinian and other Arab peoples by the Israeli Zionists with the support of the U.S. ruling circles," he told the General Assembly.

He charged that Israeli Zionists, "fostered and groomed by U.S. imperialism with the support of world reactionary aggressive forces," have launched repeated wars of aggression against Arab countries since World War II,

Chiao declared that the United Nations, "under the control and manipulation of the superpowers," had failed to condemn and stop the expansion of Israel.

Environment Problems Aim Of Diverse New Coalition

Washington (AP) — Labor, anti-poverty and conservation forces have formed a coalition to tackle environmental problems particularly affecting workers and the poor. It is known as the Urban Environmental Conference.

If successful, the new alliance could become an answer to the fear of many environment groups that industry is trying to isolate them from labor and the poor.

Many environmentalists are concerned about current economic warnings that antipollution costs could force plant closings, transfers and layoffs, and that antipollution may claim funds needed to eliminate poverty. They see these predictions as an effort to set workers and the poor against the environmentalists.

No Coordinator Yet

The new coalition has not yet selected a coordinator or determined its issues and tactics, but the general outlines can be drawn from interviews with sources in the conservation groups, labor unions, and the office of Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.

So far, the participants are cooperating on an issue-by-issue basis, starting with three chief concerns:

—The threat of unemployment or transfers among workers in plants under antipollution requirements, a threat described by some environmentalists as economic blackmail.

—Social, environmental and economic impacts of highway construction.

—Housing, particularly in the inner cities.

The coalition has begun forming subcommittees to discuss these issues and develop tactics, but the coalition's continued existence may be precarious.

One conservation spokesman commented. "The constituencies are, in many cases, very different. Some of the people in the various organizations have been more aware of the differences than they ought to be."

Sources said the coalition now includes three labor unions, seven environment groups and six antipoverty-civil rights groups:

The United Auto Workers Union, the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America; The Sierra Club, National Wildlife Federation, Wilderness Society, Izaak Walton League, Friends of Earth, Environmental Action and Zero Population Growth; The NAACP, SCLC, National Welfare Rights Organization, Center for Urban Ethnic Affairs, National Tenants Organization, and League of Women Voters.

Pay Board Moves To Bring Construction Pay To Heel

Washington (AP) — The Pay Board moved Wednesday night to bring construction pay under tighter control by establishing a joint panel to coordinate policy with the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee (CISC).

CISC, established last March before the wage freeze, was supposed to administer Pay Board policy in the construction trades, but has approved scores of contracts far above the Pay Board's 5.5%-a-year wage-increase guideline, and has approved roughly 450 cases of retroactive pay for raises lost during the freeze.

Last week the Pay Board, with some of its members reportedly upset about CISC actions, took away the construction panel's authority to approve any more retroactive wages and told the panel to hold up temporarily consideration of any more new contracts.

CISC Chairman John T. Dunlop, a Harvard University economics professor, led a CISC delegation to the Pay Board Wednesday for what a board spokesman termed a "very cordial meeting."

"Both parties agreed on the importance of Pay Board wage controls as a means of controlling inflation," Pay Board Chairman George H. Boldt said in a statement afterward.

Blue Chip Stocks Trim Early Losses

New York (AP) — Bluchip stock prices made a partial recovery in moderately active trading Wednesday but remained lower as profit taking pressures continued to haunt the market.

The closing Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped 2.55 to 854.85. Earlier it had been off about five points.

However, the New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks rose .06 to 53.55.

Analysts said the market was still in the throes of profit taking and consolidation after its recent substantial gains.

Lucien Hooper, an analyst at W. E. Hutton & Co., said "the concentrated rally in the bear market" which sent it ahead sharply last week "is still incomplete and might go on for two or three weeks more.

Big Board volume was 16.65 million shares, compared with 15.25 million shares Tuesday.

There were 748 advances and 615 declines out of 1,693 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 66 new yearly highs and 24 new lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average rose .4 to 310.1, with industrials off 1.3, rails up 1.5, and utilities up .5.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index rose .05 to 96.92.

There were 119 big blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the New York Stock Exchange compared with 117 Tuesday. The biggest was 200,000 units of American Telephone & Telegraph warrants at 6⅝, up ⅛.

Oils chemicals, metals, rubber issues and mail order-retail were off. Airlines, steels, aircrafts, and utilities were up. All other stock categories were mixed.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Pan Am, up ⅛ at 15.

American Stock Exchange prices rose .07 to 24.78. Volume was 4.29 million shares compared with 3.77 million shares Tuesday. There were 450 advances and 423 declines out of 1,185 issues traded.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How to Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
